WARREN COUNTY

Seven forest fires were reported Sunday in Warren and Venango counties, with three of them started by children playing with matches. None were attributed to fishermen, according to the Department of Forests and Waters. Page B1.

Two lists came out of the county court house yesterday. One showed there are 18,029 registered voters in the county, with one third of them Republicans. The other list was the May 15 jury call for civil court. Page B1.

THE NATION

Gov. George Romney, speaking at Atlanta's Emory University, spoke out against actions which may weaken the U.S. effort in Vietnam.

Dean Rusk yesterday told the U.S. Chamber of Commerce of the 28 separate peace moves made by the United States, each of which has been turned down by the Communists. Page One.

The Republican Policy Committee took a strong stand against U.S. Vietnam policy and the many discretionary powers it says President Johnson has been taking. Page One.

COUNTY OBSERVES LAW DAY-U.S.A.

"Open court, please," said Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. at 10 a.m. yesterday as court calendar call and observance of Law Day-U.S.A. convened. The ceremony, sponsored by the Warren County Bar Association, was witnessed by senior students from four county high schools. Pictured with the judge are Warren E. Law Day Observance Here Precedes Court Calendar

By BETTY RICE

Law Day - U.S.A. was observed yesterday morning in the Warren County court room as seniors from Sheffield, Tidioute, Youngsville and Eisenhower high schools, gathered for the 10th annual ceremony here.

Prior to the scheduled court calendar call for the month of May, Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. paid brief tribute to the late Ernest T. Johnson, who died Saturday, April 29.

The judge noted that Mr. Johnson, as court clerk for five years, had faithfully maintained the dignity of the court and would be sorely missed.

The jurist then explained the calendar call for civil jury trials and stated the process saves not only time but county money.

Of the 13 cases listed, one has been settled, four were continued and the balance will come to trial provided settlements are not reached prior to the scheduled dates. Pre-trial conferences will precede all but one case and one will be heard by the court without a jury.

Judge Flick read President Lyndon B. Johnson's 1967 proclamation of Law Day - U.S.A. which contained a quotation from a young lawyer from America's past suitable for the audience yesterday. Abraham Lincoln said, "Let reverence for the law be taught in the schools."

The theme this year was taken from words spoken by Theodore Roosevelt: "No man is above the law and no man is below it."

The judge stated the institution has endured the test of time, having been in existence for several hundred years.

William F. Chinger, a member of the Law Day committee of the Warren County Bar Association, sponsors of the annual observance, introduced the organization's president S. Knox Harper, who enlarged on the theme.

Harper said, in his opinion, the theme stressed the idea of equality in this country since those who considered themselves above the law were eventually "cut down to size" while others in the past considered below the law now had achieved their rights under the law.

President Johnson has urged all Americans to "take the law into his heart not into his hands."

H. Robert Hampson was chairman of the Law Day committee. Plans for conducted tours of the court house offices were cancelled due to the large number of students on hand yesterday.

Court house officials instead presented brief resumes of the duties of their respective offices. Speaking were Warren E. Lowe, prothonotary and clerk of courts; William E. Rice, register and recorder and clerk of Orphans Court; Jack E. McCool, county treasurer; Sheriff D. E. Allen Jr.; District Attorney Samuel F. Bonavita and Chairman of the County Board of Commissioners, P. H. Lay.

James C. Allen served as court crier.

AT SCOUT RECOGNITION DINNER

Silver Beaver Given Acks, Crary

The 51st annual recognition dinner last night of the Chief Cornplanter Council, Boy Scouts of America, was highlighted by the presentation of two Silver Beaver Awards.

The highest honor a local council can award was presented to Mr. Joseph J. Acks, scoutmaster of Troop 6, at St. Joseph's Church, and Clare J. Crary, council member at large.

Henry O. Walker directed the ceremony that honored the two scouts who have a combined service of 80 years in scouting in Warren County. Assisting were James Blomquist, James Palmer, Earl Mohrkern, and Clair H. Gardner.

William R. Walker, presented five president's awards to outstanding scouts of the council: Wes W. Augenstein, Explorer advisor of Post 38,

GOP Says President Assuming Too Much Discretionary Power

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Republican Policy Committee accused President Johnson yesterday of assuming enormous discretionary powers on the Vietnam war and asking congressional approval only after he acts.

In a lengthy review of Vietnam events designed to serve as a handbook for GOP candidates in 1968, the committee recommends the Republicans seek hard, realistic answers to two questions involved in possible escalation of the war:

—"What precisely is our national interest in Thailand, Cambodia, Vietnam and Laos?"

—"To what further lengths are we prepared to go in support of this interest?"

The report, which reviews events in Southeast Asia since 1946, says the confusion and frustration of the conflict have "frustrated challenges within Congress, within colleges and universities, within the press, within the military itself—and all to a degree not experienced since the Civil War."

"It means spending over $300,000 to kill each enemy soldier," the committee says. "It means enormous discretionary powers assumed by the President, with Congress asked to approve his actions after the fact."

The GOP committee says significance of the September presidential election in South Vietnam is problematical because the Viet Cong still control 50 per cent of the territory over which a new civilian government would attempt to preside.

"It is also problematical as to how freely a newly elected government can operate," the report says. "The military, to date, has provided the most cohesive force in Vietnam, at least from our American viewpoint. It can be assumed they will let go of the reins of power reluctantly, constitution or no constitution."

The report charges the Johnson Administration did not wish to negotiate in 1965 when Secretary General U Thant of the United Nations approached Hanoi and Washington, because the Saigon government controlled only 20 per cent of South Vietnam and its military forces were losing to the Viet Cong.

The committee says the Americanization of the war was strictly a Democratic decision. It scoffs at Johnson's contentions he is carrying out the policies and commitments laid down by previous presidents.

Rusk Defends Vietnam Policy

By JOHN W. FINNEY

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dean Rusk contended yesterday that Hanoi's repeated rejection of peace proposals underscored the fact that it was the United States, not North Vietnam, which was desirous of peace in Vietnam.

In a speech before the 55th annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Rusk recited 28 proposals which "have been made by ourselves or by others as a part of this effort to take a step toward peace."

To each of these proposals, he said, "We have said yes" and "Hanoi has said no."

"Surely all those yeses and all those noes throw a light upon motivation—upon the question of who is interested in peace and who is trying to absorb a neighbor by force," he said.

"Surely," he continued, "some light is thrown upon the character of American policy and the attitudes of the American people. Surely these yeses and noes are relevant to the moral judgments which one might wish to make about the situation in Southeast Asia."

At no point in the speech did Rusk give recognition to the claims of critics of the administration's Vietnam policy that at times the U.S. may have said "no" to peace proposals while Hanoi said "yes." One of the notable cases cited by critics is the alleged rejection by the U.S. and North Vietnam's approval in 1965 of United Nations Secretary General Thant's proposal for direct, secret talks between Washington and Hanoi in Rangoon—a case which administration officials contend is not as clear-

Russian May Day Softened

By JOHN WEYLAND

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union softened its attacks on the American presence in Vietnam and showed off no new weapons yesterday during a subdued May Day celebration in Red Square.

Defense Minister Andrei A. Grechko referred to the "criminal war" in Vietnam but his six-minute speech was milder than the anti-American May Day addresses of his predecessor, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, who died March 31. "We are with you, Vietnam," was the only slogan displayed concerning the war.

Workers and students in the Eastern Hemisphere and parts of Latin America observed the international labor holiday with rallies and parades, some of them marked by violence and protests of U.S. policies in Vietnam.

Smiling and waving, Chinese Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung rode in an open car through Peking — his first May Day appearance in five years.

A wave of strikes hit Britain. Witnesses noted less propaganda in the Moscow ceremony than in previous years and speculated that the restraint resulted from the death a week ago of cosmonaut Vladimir M. Komarov in a Soviet spaceship. For the first time since the Soviet space program began, the May Day parade had no float or banner for the cosmonauts.

Gold Bars Stolen In England

By GRANVILLE WATTS
LONDON (AP) — A gang of crooks with the "Goldfinger" touch hijacked an armored truck loaded with gold bullion estimated to be worth $2.1 million yesterday, in Britain's biggest haul since the Great Train Robbery.

The four bandits struck with the same speed and thoroughness that marked the train robbers' record $7.2-million haul in 1963.

They threw ammonia into the faces of two guards in the truck, temporarily blinding them, and beat up a third in their attack on a quiet North London street.

Then they drove the truck four miles across the city and switched the loot — listed by police as 140 gold bars weighing 174 tons — to another vehicle before disappearing.

The gold, owned by the London banking firm of N.M. Rothschild and Sons, was being delivered to a bullion dealer.

Police expect the gold will be melted down and sold in small quantities to backstreet jewelers.

One of the truck guards, Jack Chandler, 40, who suffered a head injury, told newsmen: "They seemed to come from all sides. The next thing I knew was seeing a substance — ammonia — coming toward us. Then we were beaten and hit about the head. We were thrown into the back of the van and driven off at high speed. When the van stopped we started banging on the sides until we attracted attention."

Four elderly women on their way to an afternoon bingo session heard banging from inside the truck and a man shouting: "Quick, call the police! We are in here!"

The guards were released and taken to hospital for treatment.

There was no immediate trace of the gang.

The robbery established a British record for a crime involving bullion.

Britain's biggest ever theft — the Great Train Robbery — involved used banknotes.

Protestant Reunion Advocated

By GEORGE CORNELL
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Reactions of rank-and-file church members to a proposed broad reunion of American Protestant denominations were described yesterday as only spotty so far but predominantly favorable.

Widespread consideration of the project is "yet to be achieved" at the grass roots, said the Rev. Dr. Raymond V. Kearns Jr. of New York, chairman of a committee surveying attitudes of churchgoers toward the undertaking.

However, he added that among "those who have studied it seriously," the responses "by and large have been affirmative."

A Gallup poll last year showed sentiment 2-1 in favor of it.

Dr. Kearns' report came as representatives of an expanded array of denominations — 10 of them — opened a week of deliberations at what was considered a critical juncture in the reunion effort.

Dozen Missing In Blizzard Across Dakotas

BISMARCK, N. D. (AP) — About a dozen persons were missing in North Dakota and heavy livestock losses were feared in both South Dakota and North Dakota last night as a severe blizzard abated in both states.

There were no reports of death, however.

Civil Defense authorities in Bismarck said about 12 persons were nominally listed as missing. Their situation could not be confirmed because telephone service was out over most of southwestern North Dakota.

The blinding storm began Sunday, hitting western sectors with fury. Winds were clocked to 60 miles an hour in North Dakota. The wind kicked up drifts six feet high.

By last night, 48 North Dakota towns remained without long distance telephone service. Damage was heaviest in the southwest, where sleet preceded the snow.

The North Dakota Highway Department said highways in most of the state had been opened late yesterday, but there was heavy going on some roads.

Commerce Committee Post Center of House Confusion

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Louisiana segregationist is the man in the middle of a muddle among House Democrats over a Commerce Committee vacancy — which isn't vacant.

He is Rep. Joe D. Waggonner, of Plain Dealing, La., one of the rising leaders among Southern Democrats and a key figure as Democrats try to curb Southern defections for a crucial vote on the administration's elementary and secondary education program.

It all started last Thursday when Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., the usually careful chairman of the Democratic Committee on Commerce, announced the three Democrats had been elected to the House Commerce Committee.

He identified them as Reps. W. S. Stuckey of Georgia and Peter N. Kyros of Maine, two freshmen, and Waggonner, who was first elected in a 1961 special election.

The only trouble was that there were only two vacancies on the committee, and Mills later phoned reporters to tell them he had made a mistake in announcing Waggonner's election.

In order to add Waggonner, the committee would have to be expanded, and this takes a resolution passed by the House.

Members of the Committee on Commerce say they were told that the proposal had been cleared with all concerned.

But no one had consulted Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., or other senior members of the Commerce Committee which already had 32 members — 19 Democrats and 13 Republicans.

And Staggers, already outnumbered in the committee by conservatives of both parties, is reported concerned that election of another Southern conservative would further weight the committee against what he terms the public interest.

Two Accidents Involve Tires At Glade Bridge

Tractor-trailer tires played important roles in two accidents yesterday near the Glade Bridge on Route 6.

Both crashes, in which no one was injured, occurred when the driver of an auto struck the tire of a rig as the latter was leaving the bridge.

In the first, at 6 p.m. Domenico Mangione, 16, of Sheffield, was the auto operator. Charles Krout, 39, of RD 2, Freedom, drove the truck. Total damage was $450.

Twenty minutes later, an auto operated by Lois Simonsen, 54, of Clarendon struck the tire of a rig operated by Charles Buck, 32, of Cocoa, Fla. Total damage was $100.

Both mishaps were investigated by Trooper Edward Shaffer of Warren substation. He was at the scene, investigating the first accident, when the second occurred.

Marconi Bridge

There were eleven tables playing the Mitchell movement last night at the weekly meeting of Marconi Bridge club.

North-South average was 121½.

Rusk

The proposals listed by the State Department and again yesterday by Rusk were:

A reconvening of the Geneva Conference of 1954 and a return to the agreements of 1954; a reconvening of the Geneva Conference of 1962 on Laos and a return to the agreements of 1962; a conference on Cambodia; an all-Asian peace conference; a special effort by the two co-chairmen of the conferences, Britain and the Soviet Union; a special effort by the International Control Commission; a role for the United Nations security council, or the general assembly or the secretary general; talks through intermediaries, single or group; direct talks with the U.S. or with South Vietnam.

Also, an exchange of prisoners of war; supervision of treatment of prisoners by the International Red Cross; demilitarization of the demilitarized zone; interposition of international forces between combatants; mutual withdrawal of foreign forces, including North Vietnamese forces assistance to Cambodia to assure its neutrality and territory; cessation of bombing and reciprocal de-escalation; cessation of bombing, infiltration and augmentation of U.S. forces; three suspensions of bombing to permit serious talks; discussion of Hanoi's four points along with others, such as Saigon's four points and the U.S. 14 points; discussion of an agreed four points as basis for negotiation; willingness to find means to have the views of the liberation front heard in peace discussions.

Also, negotiations without conditions, negotiations about conditions or discussion of a final settlement; peace and the inclusion of North Vietnam in a large development program for Southeast Asia; free elections to determine the government of South Vietnam; free elections on the question of reunification; reconciliation with the Viet Cong and readmission to the body politic of South Vietnam, and South Vietnam can be neutral if it so chooses.

Training awards were presented by leadership training chairman, Dr. John Lasher to: Harvey Martin of Troop 20, a Scouters Key and Donald H. King and Ralph Dalrymple, a Scouters Training Award. King is a neighborhood commissioner and Dalrymple is chairman of Troop 2. Khair McDonald received his certificate for attending training at Schiff Scout Reservation.

Harvey Martin was honored by becoming the first scout in the council to earn the Wood badge award for training. This is the highest training honor that a man can earn in the Boy Scouts of America.

Organizer pins were presented to Vincent C. Look and Dr. Lasher by William M. Hill. Eagle Scout George King gave a special thank-you to all the volunteer scouters of the council.

GOP

Dwight D. Eisenhower's overruling of proposals to send combat troops to Vietnam, it says the Republican president "stuck to his basic position that if there was a solution in South Vietnam it is political, not military."

In contrast, the report sketches under the heading, "Years of Failure," the late President John F. Kennedy's decisions to step up U.S. military advisers from 700 to more than 15,000. It cites Johnson's decision to commit U.S. forces to combat, despite what the committee says were his 1964 election-year promises this never would happen.

It says the bombing of North Vietnam was turned by his decision from merely retaliatory blows to an effort to break the supply routes to the south.

Communists Losing South of Border

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Communists have missed the boat in Latin America. Their leaders are gloomy and their prospects are bleak.

"I don't believe there is any immediate possibility for the revolutionary movement to take power anywhere in Latin America," a top Communist leader told this correspondent in a remarkable burst of frankness. The leader would talk only anonymously.

The interior minister of this key country, Reinaldo Leandro Mora, says Venezuela now finds the Communists "more of a nuisance than a problem." He says they are going backward everywhere in Latin America and are gloomily aware of it.

In Venezuela, where not long ago Communists rode high, they have been just about whipped. The Communist leader admitted the party's membership has fallen to 15,000. Even this figure may be exaggerated; a few years ago it numbered tens of thousands more than that.

The Communists have themselves to blame, mostly, for their plummeting fortunes. Mistakes, blunders and confusion have contributed to a steadily worsening situation for what they call the "liberation movement," despite pockets of guerrilla activity on the South American continent.

The party leader complained that one of communism's big problems is Fidel Castro of Cuba, whose activities have made "the U.S. giant sleep with one eye open."

The Venezuelan party's orthodox wing has announced an intention to shun violence because of scant popular support. Guerrillas in the hills of Falcon Province and elsewhere probably total no more than 300, and some are weekend warriors who return to being university students during the week.

Under what conditions would the party return to violence? The Communist leader's answer reflected the flagging hopes. "Fortunately for you Yankee investors, the opportunity is very far away. The objective conditions are against it."

Many factors are involved in sinking Communist fortunes. The feud of Soviet and Chinese leaders was translated in South America into a scrap between impatient revolutionaries thirsting for violence and those following the more cautious course.

The orthodox Communist leadership has become old and set in its ways. Some Red leaders are indistinguishable from middle-class businessmen. Some live in luxury on incomes from leadership positions which have become routine jobs.

The Soviet Union is anxious to enter the Latin-American market, and thus national Soviet interests tend to interfere with the pursuit of world revolution.

U.S. Marines Battle For Higher Ground

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines fought North Vietnamese army regulars in South Vietnam's northwest corner yesterday in a drive for high ground controlling major infiltration routes from the North Vietnam through the demilitarized zone and Laos. New ground action flared up also in the central highlands.

In the air war, U.S. jets tangled again with Communist MIGs over North Vietnam and brought down three of them, the U.S. Command said. One U.S. Air Force pilot maneuvered one of the MIGs into the ground.

Radio Peking claimed the Red Chinese air force shot down two U.S. A4B Skyhawks in Kwangsi Province in mainland China. The province borders on North Vietnam. A similar Chinese claim last Wednesday was denied in Saigon.

A Hanoi broadcast claimed the North Vietnamese air force shot down three U.S. planes yesterday while ground forces downed a fourth.

There was no confirmation in Saigon of either of these Communist claims.

In the central highlands fighting, units of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division reported killing 49 enemy soldiers in sharp fighting in Pleiku Province, U.S. casualties were reported as three men killed and 23 wounded. Reinforcements in tanks and personnel carriers moved up last night to the battle scene 220 miles north of Saigon.

The Marine fight began over the weekend but was reported by Leatherneck headquarters to be tapering off last night.

Headquarters said the Marines killed 180 Communists in the fight for two hills — hill 881 South and Hill 881 North — separated by a 1,000-yard valley six miles northwest of Khe Sanh. That village is about 20 miles south of the demilitarized zone and about five miles east of the Laotian border. Marine casualties were reported as 49 men killed and 156 wounded.

Marine headquarters said control of the two hills apparently was still in doubt at nightfall.

Allied intelligence reports indicate that about 35,000 Communist troops are massed in and around the demilitarized zone for a possible push south. The demilitarized zone divides the two Vietnams.

Major routes for the infiltration of Communist men and supplies are said to pass through mountainous and jungled areas on the western end of the demilitarized zone and through areas in Laos that are controlled by the Communist Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese troops.

No other major ground fighting was reported across the country, but in the sky over North Vietnam there was a swirling fury of air combat.

By announced U.S. count, the knocking out of the three MIGs brought to 48 the number of Communist jets downed so far in the course of the war. Thirteen U.S. planes have been reported lost in combat with MIGs.

In keeping with its usual policy, the U.S. Command delayed reporting on weather conditions or the number of missions flown yesterday. It appeared, however, that the weather over North Vietnam again was good, as it was Sunday when U.S. planes flew 133 missions.

FOR SCHOOL BOARD

Jamestown Election Today

JAMESTOWN — Voters in the enlarged Jamestown school district will go to the polls today to choose between two candidates for a five-year term on the board of education.

Incumbent Dr. Gordon R. Sanctuary, a Jamestown dentist, is being challenged by Mrs. Maurice Goldman.

Dr. Sanctuary who lives at 1311 North Main st. has been a member of the board of education since 1960 and has served as chairman of the buildings and grounds committee.

The mother of three children, Mrs. Goldman lives at 71 Gordon st. with her husband Simon Goldman. He is president of the James Broadcasting System, operator of the radio station WJTN. She has been active in several civic and community organizations including the YWCA and the PTA.

All citizens who were registered for the general election last fall are eligible to vote.

Voting places will open at noon today in the city's seven school election districts and will remain open until 9 p.m.

Warren Lions Win 6th Award

Warren's Lions Club won first place with its scrapbook at Greenville in the district governor's annual contest.

It was the sixth consecutive year that the Warren club took top honors in the division.

Ange D'Amore, president of the Warren club, received the award from District Governor LaVerne Peterson of Greenville. Among those attending the spring rally over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. D'Amore, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. Al Chiaromonte, Mr. and Mrs. John Crone, the Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Kramer and Mrs. June Miller.

Britain to Accelerate Troop Withdrawals from Far East

By ANTHONY LEWIS
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
LONDON—The government announced yesterday a "firm decision" to accelerate troop withdrawals from the Far East.

Denis Healey, the minister of Defense, used that phrase in announcing a first deployment target for British forces in Singapore and Malaysia. By next April, he said, 20,000 fewer troops and civilian employees would be there than in the confrontation with Indonesia ended last year.

Healey gave no figures for purposes of comparison, and defense officials said they were not available. But it was clear that a substantial reduction was under way.

Until recently there were more than 50,000 British troops in the Singapore-Malaysia theater. The number of civilian personnel, though not specified, was probably about half as large. Thus perhaps one-fourth will be gone by next April.

The rather bare comments made by Healey in answer to questions confirmed reports that Britain has set itself on a gradual but steady course of cutting its military commitments in the Far East.

Healey was asked yesterday whether the cut of 20,000 was the end of planned reductions in Singapore and Malaysia.

"No, exactly the contrary," Healey said. "I thought I made clear to the House that we were contemplating further reductions beyond those I have announced in the next 12 months."

What Healey was reflecting was a conclusion, reached by the cabinet within recent weeks, that the long-discussed effort to reduce the economic burden of Far East commitments must be pressed more vigorously.

It is clear that the rundown now under way is the beginning of a process that is going to be a continuing one. That there will be any significant number of British ground forces in the Far East by the mid-1970's is increasingly doubtful.

American officials are known to be unhappy about Britain's plans.

McNamara Issues Orders To Speed Flow of News

By BENJAMIN WELLES
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara sharply reminded the Defense Department yesterday that "news management and meddling" with news would not be tolerated.

Teachers Charged In Strike

MARTINS FERRY, Ohio (AP) —Contempt of court charges were filed yesterday against striking teachers as schools in this community remained closed for the fourth straight day.

Albert C. Joseph and Thomas J. Jones, attorneys for the board of education here, cited the teachers and officials of the Ohio Education Association (OEA) in violation of a seven-month-old restraining order that prohibits the teachers and the OEA from interfering with operation of the schools.

Cited were Stayton Brighton, executive secretary of the OEA; Ed Hoon, chief organizer of the OEA; Don Force, an OEA organizer, and 83 teachers.

They will be summoned to appear in Belmont County Court Thursday.

In the wake of the charges, the boycotting teachers held another meeting across the river at Wheeling, W. Va., pondering their next move.

A weekend meeting between representatives of the board and the Classroom Teachers Association (CTA) reportedly brought "substantial progress" in every area except the restraining order.

CTA President Allen Martin said the areas of agreement included the demand by the teachers for recognition by the board, the original issue in the dispute.

The teachers involved have said they do not plan to return to school until the dispute is settled.

In a memorandum that clearly implied the existence of such practices, McNamara ordered his principal civilian and military subordinates to observe a policy of "maximum disclosure" of information except for that which would be of "material assistance to potential enemies."

McNamara said that managed news or meddling would not be tolerated "either in external public information or internal troop information."

McNamara's new instructions appeared to be directed as much at Thomas D. Morris, assistant defense secretary for manpower, as at Phil G. Goulding, assistant secretary for public affairs.

Morris's responsibilities include the supervision of the armed forces radio and television service and periodicals, such as Stars and Stripes, intended principally for servicemen.

Goulding's jurisdiction centers principally on the release of Defense Department information to the general public.

Well-informed sources, who declined to be identified, explained that the thrust of McNamara's order was to halt attempts by military commanders to censor newspapers and radio and television programs serving American military personnel overseas or in the United States.

These sources recalled an incident in March when Col. George E. Moranda was relieved of duty as public affairs officer for the U.S. Army's European headquarters at Heidelberg at the order of Gen. Andrew R. O'Meara, U.S. commander in Europe.

Colonel Moranda's sudden transfer was officially laid to "loss of confidence in his suitability." It came however, after he had refused to kill a Stars and Stripes story reporting the arrest of Michael E. McGuire, son of George McGuire, U.S. ambassador to Bonn, on charges of driving while under the influence of drugs.

Congress Again Forestalls Threatened Railroad Strike

By NEIL GILBRIDE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress acted quickly yesterday to forestall for a second time a threatened nationwide railroad strike, and a union spokesman accused the railroads of seeking police-state legislation to force a settlement.

President Johnson, asking for the 47-day strike delay enacted yesterday, had said he would send Congress additional legislation designed to settle the wage dispute between the railroads and six shopcraft unions.

But Johnson gave no hint of what his proposal would contain.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., floor manager in the Senate for the resolution extending the strike ban, said he is confident the President's proposal will reach the Capitol by tomorrow, and perhaps by today.

The railroads have reacted strongly against some proposals that would include government seizure of the rail lines.

"The railroads want Congress to impose compulsory arbitration on their employees," said Michael Fox, president of the AFL-CIO Railway Employees Department.

"What that means is throwing into prison any railroad worker who dares to strike," Fox said in a statement on behalf of the six unions which threatened to strike 90 per cent of the nation's major railroads at 12:01 a.m. Wednesday.

Congress earlier had enacted a 20-day strike delay after a 60-day cooling-off period under the Railway Labor Law expired.

Some members of Congress said they voted for further delay only because of Johnson's promise to propose legislation for a permanent settlement.

Union and government sources said there was no immediate plan for new bargaining talks between union negotiators headed by Fox and railroad negotiators headed by J.E. Wolfe.

"We shall abide by the law," Fox said, but added: "Up to now the railroads have not wanted to settle this dispute."

"That's why they broke off negotiations with us last Tuesday."

The six unions represent 137,000 machinists, electricians, carmen, boilermakers, sheet-metal workers and firemen and oilers.

The unions are demanding a 6.5 per cent general pay raise plus 12.5 per hour for skilled men this year, and another 5 per cent pay hike plus an additional 12.5 cents for skilled men next year.

The railroad's last reported offer was a 6 per cent general wage increase for an 18-month settlement, plus an extra 5 cents an hour for skilled workers.

Wages now average about $2.90 for the men involved, and about $3.05 for those rated as skilled.

New Yorkers Charged In Picket Line Incident

MAYVILLE, N.Y. — Five persons were charged with disorderly conduct and released on $50 bail yesterday following a picket line incident at the Kling factories in Mayville.

The incident occurred when Lewis E. Lamphier, manager of the Mayville plant was prevented from parking his car in a company lot.

Three hundred employees of Kling factories, with plants in Mayville, Falconer and Frewsburg, stayed away from their jobs yesterday in a dispute over recognition of their union, Lodge 2278 of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace workers.

IAM officials charged the company with failure to recognize a union although it has been certified as the official bargaining agent for the employees.

Mayville Police Chief Harold A. Lamb said he warned the pickets to move on in order to allow the Lamphier auto to pass, but they refused to do so. Warrants were served some three hours later by Chief Lamb who was accompanied by two deputies.

Charged with disorderly conduct were Rose Martin of Westfield, N.Y., secretary of the IAM lodge; William Lewis of French Creek, N.Y.; Wesley Barrows of Westfield; and William Moss and Harold Rathburn, both of Mayville.

The five were arraigned before Town of Chautauque Peace Justice A.C. Newton and were released on $50 bail pending a court appearance on Monday, May 9.

The case was postponed to await counsel for the IAM from out of town.

Following the incident the picketing resumed and was reported as being orderly.

Protect Our Resources

One of the amendments on the May 16 Primary Election ballot (Question 8-A) zeroes in on the need to protect Pennsylvania's land resources and clean-up our streams before it is too late.

We as voters are asked to approve a $500 million bond issue, which would be invested over a ten-year period to give us clean water and protect us from urban sprawl.

These are the problems that the bond issue was designed to face:

--There are 200,000 acres of ABANDONED strip pits scattered across the state, making the land useless and ugly, and, even worse, seeping acid mine water into our streams. These are abandoned pits, which Pennsylvania's recent "best in the nation" strip mine control law can't do anything about. They must be filled in, restored, eliminated as a major water pollution source.

--More than 900 MILLION GALLONS of acid mine drainage pours into our streams EACH DAY from long-abandoned mining operations. Last year's landmark legislation for clean streams prohibits operating mines from polluting our waterways, but funds are necessary to stop the pollution from abandoned workings.

--Millions of gallons of sewage pours raw EACH DAY into our rivers and streams from communities still without sewage treatment plants.

--The more than 150,000 acres of land purchased under Project 70 needs to be developed to serve as recreational areas for all the people of Pennsylvania.

To meet these needs, the Shafer Administration has prepared legislation that would invest the $500 million bond issue as follows:

--$200 million would go to restore land and waterways ruined and left abandoned by the mining industry.

--$100 million would be invested to help small communities (on a matching funds basis) build sewage treatment plants.

JIM BISHOP

Time Erodes Ideals

Fundamentally, the Russian is not an internationalist. Deep within him is an instinct for isolation. His hamlets are separated from others. So are his cities, each of which commands its own loyalties. Moscow, as originally conceived, consisted of three separate cities, each with its own wall. The outer section was called the Wooden City, the one inside it was the White City. Farthest in was a huge fort called the Kremlin.

The little revolution, that succeeded in Petrograd on the decisive night of March 12, 1917, at once severed connections with other parts of Russia. It required eight months for the Soviets, having arrested the Czar and his family, and having set up a provisional government that was worthless outside of Petrograd (now Leningrad), to export Bolshevism to the rest of Russia.

The Communists said privately that they were afraid of the Russian Army. They stepped aside, temporarily, to permit the Mensheviks to set up a compromise government of autocrats and socialists. Three weeks after Petrograd had been secured, Nicolai Lenin, sitting in a sealed train furnished by the Germans, arrived in the capital. He was shocked to find that his own party was not ready, not willing, to spread the revolution.

This fundamental isolationism has caused the Soviets to set up separate "nations" within the Soviet Union. These, surrounding the new capital at Moscow, are the "white cities" of old. Beyond them now are the satellite nations of Poland, East Germany, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, the new "Wooden cities."

When the Soviet Union had conquered the Russians and was protected inside its cocoon of nations, the rulers decided to propagate the world revolution. This had to be a form of imperialism, rather than idealism, because the Communist secretariat had decreed that Russia was to be the mother, the guide, the mentor, the disciplinarian, of all other revolutions.

The dissatisfied of all nations would form local Communist parties and, to insure control, they would look to the Comintern in Moscow for their assignments, political thought, and exploitation of their own nations. The timetable called for bending the world to its will in a decade. Fifty years have passed since the spark ignited in Petrograd. Most of the European land mass, and most of Asia, is socialist. But the world revolution has failed. The Russians won only when their adversaries were weak. Two generations have grown up under socialism in the Soviet Union, but time has eroded the iron ideals.

The pendulum in Russia swings with deadly slowness from left toward center. Almost a third of all Russian industry will soon be privately managed. The profit motive, once despised, is now popular. The formidable adversary, the United States, swings slowly from the isolation of 1915 to the center of the political dial. In time, the two pendulums may overlap.

The Soviet Union which spent blood and treasure in China, was stopped dead at the Amur River. Today it is a man named Mao who preaches world revolution. His brand of Communism had Marx written across the face of it. The Russian cocoon has a huge rip in the south. A potential enemy of 600,000,000 people no longer look to Moscow for guidance. Some socialist states, notably Albania, bend the knee to Peking.

Rumania has showed signs of independent thinking. So has Yugoslavia, of course. The revolution has failed in Greece, been successful in Cuba, As the decades flick by, the triumphs become smaller. The Soviet Union, far from dictating world revolution, now needs friends.

Its most lasting victories have been within its own borders. The average Russian, no matter what the detractors say, is better off in material comforts than he was under the Czar. There is order that applies to all. Big heads atop the Soviet hierarchy are more easily lopped than small ones on the farms and in the factories. In the field of physics, in military gallantry, the Russians are as good as any nation.

What will the next fifty years bring? A seer is, to create a pun, a sucker. One might guess that the tide of socialism is near its peak. If it cannot win in Korea and Vietnam, neither can it stand still. It must recede. In time, a few African nations may turn toward the Soviet sphere.

This will hardly balance the scales for the losing of Indonesia and the heavily seeded republics of the Americas. The Russians cover such loss of face by rattling their rockets. They can destroy, and they can be destroyed.

They talk brazenly, act cautiously. The bright young planners in the Pentagon think there will be no missile war. The only thing I can safely prophesy is, if it comes, I will not have to cover the story.

... that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights — except when they are the cause of mental anguish ...

--$125 million would be invested by the Department of Forests and Waters, the Fish and Game Commissions and the Historical and Museum Commission in the development of public recreation areas.

--$75 million would be made available to help develop land now being purchased by communities under Project 70 for recreation purposes.

Investment of bond-issue proceeds has been designed in a way to generate additional millions in Federal funds through Appalachia and other Federal conservation programs.

Nobody yet has been able to figure out how human beings can exist without an adequate supply of pure water. Pennsylvania's water supply--with 20,000 miles of polluted streams--is in danger of not being able to take care of our population in the years ahead. So, in its simplest terms the referendum question on the bond issue is designed to clean-up our streams so that we will have an adequate supply of pure water. The handwriting on the wall is very clear. If we delay, Pennsylvanians in a few years simply won't have the clean water they need to meet daily needs.

Vote "Yes" on May 16.

WORTH SAVING? VOTE YES NINE TIMES!

Nothing To Fear

WASHINGTON — There has been growing fear in Washington in the past few weeks that the Johnson administration is escalating its efforts to cut off all criticism of the way the President and his people are handling the Vietnam war.

Buchwald

He also has said, though, that the dissenters are prolonging the war and the more his critics scream for peace the more encouraged Hanoi is to continue the fighting.

Therefore, the burden of ending the war is not on the administration any more, but on the critics. And in a free society it is a tough burden to carry.

I found my friend Polanski, who has been a critic of the war for some time, muttering to himself the other day.

"Let's see," he said, "if I'm against the war and I say I'm against the war, that means the war will continue. But if I say I'm for the war, even if I'm against it, that means it will end."

"That's right, Polanski," I said. "If you would just shut up, Hanoi would come to the conference table in 24 hours."

"But I don't like the way the war is going," he protested.

"No one likes the way the war is going, Polanski, but the more you say you don't like the way the war is going, the worse the war gets. At least that's what President Johnson says."

"But if I don't say I don't like the way the war is going, how will President Johnson know I don't like it?"

"President Johnson knows already that you don't like the way the war is going."

"Who told him?"

"Probably the FBI. But the important thing is he doesn't care if he knows it. What worries him is that Ho Chi Minh knows it."

"How would Ho Chi Minh know it?" Polanski wanted to know.

"Because President Johnson keeps talking about his U. S. critics helping Ho Chi Minh all the time."

"But if I shut up, then President Johnson will think I'm for everything he's doing over there."

"I don't think that would bother President Johnson too much."

"But it would bother me. After all, if we don't have any dissent in this country, then we're no better than the Communists."

"Now that's ridiculous, Polanski. There will always be healthy dissent in this country. Why you could get up tomorrow and attack Lady Bird's beautification program and you wouldn't hear a peep from the White House. You could also attack Sens. Fulbright, Kennedy, McGovern and Church and even though they're members of the President's own political party he would welcome your criticism. That's the kind of man the President is."

"Isn't there any way of telling President Johnson I don't approve of his policies without Hanoi finding out about it?" Polanski said.

"It's not easy, Polanski, particularly when you're wearing that sweat shirt which says MAKE LOVE NOT WAR."

"Okay, you've persuaded me, I'll make a new sweat shirt."

Polanski took out a brush and paint. As I looked over his shoulder, he painted on his sweat shirt BOMB HANOI BACK TO THE STONE AGE.

"That's wonderful, Polanski," I said. "You may even win the Nobel Peace Prize for that one."

GOP Contributions Involved

WASHINGTON — Today (May 2) comes the final showdown over the $1 voluntary income tax checkoff to raise money for conducting Presidential campaigns. The showdown will be chiefly between the unpredictable Democratic Whip, Sen. Russell Long, D-La., son of the famous Louisiana Kingfish, and the equally unpredictable Senator from Tennessee, our Albert Gore, Long favors the checkoff which, it's estimated, will raise $30 million for each Presidential candidate. Gore is vigorously opposed.

There is an interesting background to the two contestants. Sen. Long was a small boy when his father ran for governor, then Senator on the platform of "every man a king," raising his money with the Robin Hood technique of shaking down big corporations and using their money to vote free schoolbooks, more schoolhouses, and toll-free bridges across the Mississippi. Eventually Huey Long was killed by an assassin's bullet in the statehouse in Baton Rouge, and a statue now stands in front of the state capital with a spotlight shining on it 24 hours a day.

Russell Long, son of Kingfish, looks more and more like his daddy and has some of his father's wild-eyed approach to legislation. On the whole, however, he remains dedicated to the same philosophy of making every man, including the man in the street, a king.

Tennessee's Gore has come up the hard way through politics and once was entrusted with the chairmanship of the Senate Elections Subcommittee which in 1956 did a painstaking job of tabulating the tremendous amounts of money channeled into the Presidential election by heads of big corporations, wealthy families and advertising agencies to reelect Eisenhower.

Unlike other Senate Elections chairmen, Gore did not go out on the campaign trail to hold hearings regarding political skulduggery. But after the campaign was over, he published a book weighing about two pounds which affords the only real diagnosis of how big contributors can elect Presidents.

This book, however, should help Sen. Long not Sen. Gore in the battle coming up in the Senate today. It shows on page 65 that the top Republican families of the nation contributed $1,040,526 to reelect Eisenhower while wealthy Democratic families could put up only $107,109. The DuPont family, for instance, gave $248,423; the Mellon family of Pittsburgh put up $100,150; the Pew family of Philadelphia, owners of Sun Oil, put up $216,800; the Rockefellers contributed $152,604; while the Whitneys — he was the owner of the now defunct New York Herald Tribune — contributed $121,450.

Sen. Long then phoned Wallace in Alabama and told him what had happened. Wallace had already read the papers and wondered why Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., had voted against him with the Republicans.

"I can't understand Jim Eastland's vote," said Wallace, not knowing that Jim has become a Republican in everything but name.

Long promised to do all in his power to modify the restriction against third parties.

"That's fair," said Wallace, and he agreed to support Long.

In case he should lose his fight in the Senate, Long has already spoken to President Johnson about vetoing the repealer. Johnson promised to give it "serious consideration."

Now We Really Know — IV

WASHINGTON — Now we REALLY KNOW Hanoi's approach to the problem of negotiations; and we know, too, that Hanoi's theory of the right conduct of negotiations is of a character to horrify the virtuous Americans who want President Johnson to crawl to the negotiating table on his hands and knees.

We know these things from captured documents of unchallengeable authenticity. As already reported, one-half of the negotiating story is contained in a letter from the first secretary of the North Vietnamese Communist Party, Le Duan, to the Communist command in the South, usually known as COSVN, to make "tremendous efforts" to "defeat the enemy at all costs."

But the aim of these efforts was to set the stage for talks. This emerges clearly from the other half of the negotiating story, contained in two mutually contradictory records of a lecture to COSVN given by Gen. Nguyen Van Vinh, chairman of the North Vietnamese Communist Party's reunification commission. Like Le Duan, Gen. Vinh was filling in the COSVN comrades on the Twelfth Resolution adopted by the plenum of the Party Central Committee in March, 1966.

The more ample of the two records of the Vinh lecture sets out the Hanoi approach schematically, as follows: "In a war between a powerful country which wages aggression and a weak country, as long as we have not yet acquired adequate strength, a situation where fighting and negotiations are conducted simultaneously DOES NOT EXIST. Fighting continues until the emergence of a situation (in which) both sides are fighting intensively (in other words, until those "tremendous efforts" to "defeat the enemy" have begun to meet with success).

"Then a situation where fighting and negotiations are conducted simultaneously may emerge. In fighting while negotiating, the side which fights more strongly will compel the adversary to accept its conditions. Considering the comparative balance of forces, the war proceeds through the following stages:

"The fighting stage. "The stage of fighting while negotiating. "Negotiations and signing of agreements."

In this remarkable schema, one must read between the lines to perceive that negotiations are regarded as no more than a way, though sometimes a tactically useful way, of registering the results obtained on the field of battle. But all this was also spelled out in plainest terms by Gen. Vinh.

After recording Hanoi's rejection of Moscow's advice to negotiate at once and China's advice to fight on for a "few years," Gen. Vinh returned to "the problem of choosing the opportunity and deciding to negotiate."

"The future situation," the best record of the Vinh lecture continues, "may lead to negotiations. Yet, even if there are negotiations, they are conducted simultaneously with fighting. While negotiating, we will continue fighting the enemy more vigorously. (It is possible that the North conducts negotiations while the South continues fighting.)

"Those who are in charge of conducting negotiations negotiate and those in charge of fighting continue fighting because the decisive factor lies in the battlefield. . . . We must fight to win great victories with which to compel the enemy to accept our conditions. . . . "If we conduct negotiations while fighting vigorously, we can also take advantage of the opportunity to step up the political struggle, military proselytizing and activities in the cities. Thus, we will take advantage of the opportunity offered by negotiations to step up further our military attacks (and) political struggle."

To be sure, Gen. Vinh's mission required him to be emphatic. As chairman of the North Vietnamese Communist Party's reunification commission he is the man charged with day-to-day direction of the effort in South Vietnam. He was lecturing the southern high command, and the COSVN leaders were precisely the people who would have had to "take advantage of the opportunity offered by negotiations" if all had developed as Hanoi planned and hoped.

To be sure, too, Gen. Vinh's lecture and First Party Secretary Le Duan's letter depict Hanoi's decisions of a year ago. These have since been slightly modified—but that is another subject.

The main point is that these documents reveal, with the most glaring clarity, exactly how Hanoi sees negotiations and precisely what dangers must be guarded against if negotiations are ever opened.

Dairy Industry Changes

(ED NOTE: Perhaps no single subject has been as controversial in recent years within the confines of the Keystone State as the question of whether milk controls in Pennsylvania are an advantage or disadvantage insofar as the consumer, the dealer and the producer are concerned. This series of three columns represents an in-depth report on the question.)

(First of Three Parts)

HARRISBURG — The dairy industry in Pennsylvania has undergone great changes over the years.

Many years ago the dairy farmer led his cow to the consumers' front door, ringing a hand bell to announce his arrival. A housewife needing milk carried out her own pail, into which the farmer "delivered" milk direct from the cow while the housewife watched.

There were no health safeguards or sanitary requirements in those long gone days.

Today milk production, processing and distribution are extremely complex. Safeguards to the public health and strict sanitary standards are required.

Cow delivered milk was supplanted by the horse drawn wagon. At first milk was ladled into the housewife's pail from a milk can. Then dairymen delivered milk in glass quart bottles. The motor truck turned supplanted the horse drawn wagon.

It has been said that anyone understanding the complexities of milk marketing and reporting in detail would require several volumes. The author of such a treatise would certainly qualify for a doctor's degree.

During the early 1930's chaotic conditions of instability existed in Pennsylvania's milk industry. In 1934 the General Assembly in the public interest enacted the Milk Control Law on a temporary basis. In 1937, the law was re-enacted on a permanent basis. It has been amended frequently and as late as during the 1965 Session of the General Assembly.

Curiously and amazingly, perhaps the best answer as to "why" the act is in existence at all in Pennsylvania is to be found (of all places) in the preamble to the act itself as illustrated by the following excerpts:

"Milk is the most necessary human food, vital for promotion of the public health and for development of strength and vigor in the race. It is a most fertile field for the growth of bacteria, and therefore its production and distribution have been surrounded by more costly sanitary requirements than those of any other commodity in this, the third greatest milk producing and consuming state of the nation."

"Milk consumers are not assured of a constant and sufficient supply of pure, wholesome milk unless the high cost of maintaining sanitary conditions of production and standards of purity is returned to the producers of milk. Public health is menaced when milk dealers do not or cannot pay a price to producers commensurate with the cost of sanitary production, or when consumers are required to pay excessive prices for this necessity of life."

"Milk dealers must handle constant surpluses to meet the emergency requirements of normal variations in fluid consumption and to meet seasonal variations in production, which amounts in excess of fluid requirements must find a market in fluid use or in manufacture, and tend to demoralize the industry."

"Public control of the milk industry in recent years is stabilizing the conditions therein, and a relaxation of control will cause a return to the unhealthy, uneconomic, deceptive and destructive practices of the past with respect to this paramount industry upon which the health and welfare of the Commonwealth largely depends."

"It is necessary to preserve and promote the strength and vigor of the inhabitants of this Commonwealth, to protect the public health and welfare, and to prevent fraud and imposition upon consumers and producers by continuing to treat the production, transportation, manufacture, processing, storage, distribution, and sale of milk in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as a business affecting the public health and affected with a public interest."

A TEEN-AGER'S FIRST CAR

by Henry Gregor Felsen

Sixth of a Series

THE AUTOMOBILE SALESMAN AND YOU

Believe it or not, there is someone in this world who wants you to have a car more than you yourself want one. He is the used car salesman you are about to talk to.

No matter what buying a car means to you, this is what your purchase means to him: It means food on the table, shoes for the children, a dollar put aside for his old age.

Selling cars is how he makes his living, which is the polite phrase that means survival. You are looking for a car to drive and enjoy. He is fighting for his life.

When you understand this, you understand why the salesman will use every approach, every argument, and every technique to sell you one of his cars before you leave.

He will flatter, cajole, listen to you talk about cars, look you in the eye, whisper in your ear, lend you a car—do everything he can to interest and obligate you to the point of saying yes.

Knowing this, there are two things you should guard against:

1. Don't get trapped into making a purchase.

2. Don't waste the salesman's time.

Professional salesmen know that teen-agers are "impulse buyers," that if brought to the right pitch of enthusiasm, they will often buy blindly and be willing to sign or have anything signed, just so they can take possession of what they must have. And salesmen know that these impulses are as brief as they are intense—that they are crushes, and not true love.

Should they miss selling you at the "right" moment, you are very likely to go to another lot, get talked into a frenzy about another car, and buy it as suddenly.

Therefore, if the salesman thinks you are seriously in the market, he will do everything—play on every emotion, use whatever means seems to work on you—to get you nailed down as a customer before someone else nabs you.

Salesmen differ. There are some who are without conscience, cold-blooded, and interested only in getting a fast sale and a fat commission.

On the other hand, I have some good friends who sell cars. They are not order-takers, but good salesmen, who can really "sell" a customer.

But they are also good, decent, bright, honest men, who do not try to oversell a customer and who are most pleased when they can put a customer in a really good car.

I have known these men to talk themselves blue in the face, trying to interest a customer in a car that was a tremendous buy for the money, only to have the customer choose another car, on the basis of appearance or make, that was a bad buy at half the price.

A great many teen-agers read all the car magazines and have a great "knowledge" of cars. They can talk cubic inches and torque curves and can go through all the motions of examining a used car in detail to ascertain its condition.

And very often, their pride in their knowledge leads to their downfall.

A used car salesman might be described as a man who makes his living being out-witted by teen-agers who "know all about cars."

If you walk on the lot acting the wise guy and the know-it-all, you are asking for trouble. You can, as many such teen-agers have, talk yourself into the worst buy on the lot.

I have seen a salesman take a teen-ager who thought he was a car expert, lead him to a pile of junk, and flatter the teen-ager into selling himself on the shot automobile.

If you are lucky, you'll run across a salesman who, possibly, has teen-agers of his own and understands your needs and problems. He'll discuss your car problem frankly and honestly and try to come up with something that is worth the money you can pay.

In my own case, I have always shopped for salesmen as well as dealers. A couple of times, I've told a salesman I respected what I wanted, and how much I could afford.

And I've added this: "I'm not going to shop around. When you find what you think I want, let me know, and I'll buy it from you. If not that one, then the next one. But I'll buy whatever you find."

In this way, I haven't had to be a car expert. I've let an expert shop for me.

And I've found out something else. If you are dealing with a good man who has professional pride, he will show his appreciation for your trust in him as a human being. Whenever he does call, he'll have a good car.

You may, if you are patient and lucky, run across a man who will do the same for you. If you do, and let his knowledge and skill work for you, you'll come up with a better car than you can find on your own.

If you are a decent customer, you'll get decent treatment. If you set out to "skin" the salesman, it will be your hide that ends up on his wall.

No matter with whom you deal, don't be rushed into signing anything, don't buy on a sudden wave of desire when you first look at a particular car and don't take too much to heart all the nice things the salesman says, not about the car, about you! Ali and Dissent

(C) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — Muhammad Ali, the loquacious heavyweight champion of the world (whatever the various boxing commissions may say), has participated in so many farcical weighing-in exercises, news conference and boxing matches, that it is tempting to regard his refusal to enter the armed forces as just one more happening staged to drum up a few laughs, a few headlines and a bigger gate for the next bout.

In fact, whether he knows it or not, Ali has raised one of the sharpest and most difficult questions to answer in a democratic society. What happens when enough citizens simply refuse to obey the positive commands of government and of the national majority?

That is what Ali is doing, since Selective Service is a clearly legal act of Congress that provides certain exemptions, as well as administrative and legal processes through which a citizen may claim one of these exemptions.

Through these processes, Ali has made the claim that he is a minister of the Black Muslim religion and therefore entitled to a clergyman's exemption from Selective Service. He also has charged that he is a victim of racial and other discrimination. Both administratively and in the courts, all these claims have been dismissed as without merit, and Ali's induction has been ordered.

A final legal appeal is still pending but however it comes out, the issue raised by the remarkable Ali remains, because he has made it quite clear that whether or not the courts finally rule in his favor, whether or not the government, in both its administrative and judicial processes, has given his claims due and fair hearing—whether or not, in short, his position is "legally" justified, he will simply refuse to serve in the armed forces.

As one individual, of course, Ali causes no particular problem outside of his personal notoriety. If he is held legally liable for induction and continues his refusal to take the oath, he can be jailed and no doubt will be.

Nor is there any suggestion, so far, that Ali is concerned with anything more than his own case, or understands its real significance. The fact is, however, that he is taking the ultimate position of civil disobedience; he is refusing to obey the law of the majority on grounds of his personal beliefs, with full knowledge of the possible consequences. A single question sets forth the problem this raises in a democratic society:

What would happen if all young men of draft age took the same position?

What, indeed, would happen if only, say, 100,000 young men flatly refused to serve in the armed forces, regardless of their legal position, regardless of the consequences?

This would be an entirely different thing from conscientious objection, as that concept is now set forth in the law and as it has been interpreted by the courts. A conscientious objector is one who can clearly establish that he is opposed to all wars and all killing either because of religious teaching or "a given belief that is sincere and meaningful (and) occupies a place in the life of its possessor parallel to that filled by the orthodox belief in God."

April Jail Report

Warden D. E. Allen Sr. has announced that during the month of April, the county jail processed and committed 16 adult prisoners and two juveniles. The 18 persons served a total of 165 days and consumed 472 meals. Prisoners worked a total of 10 hours.

Thus, there is a reasonable legal and administrative route through which a conscientious objector can obtain relief. Ali has made no such claim and few of those who object strongly to the Vietnamese war could make it, or would even wish to.

Yet, if large numbers of these dissenters simply refused military service, what could the government of a democracy do? The prevention of illegal acts is one thing; forcing citizens to take a positive step against their will is another.

A hundred thousand Muhammad Ais, of course, could be jailed. But if the Johnson administration had to prosecute 100,000 Americans in order to maintain its authority, its real power to pursue the Vietnamese war or any other policy would be crippled if not destroyed. It would then be faced, not with dissent, but with civil disobedience on a scale amounting to revolt.

Muhammad Ali is not trying to inspire such a movement; given the difficulties of organization and the personal and social dangers to all involved, it is unlikely to develop at all.

Yet, this strange, pathetic Negro boxer, superbly gifted in body, painfully warped in spirit, has shown far more intelligent and knowledgeable men the logical outcome of a dissent that does not finally concede the right of majority government to govern, as well as the ultimate danger to a government that outrages a powerful and passionate minority.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS' SERIES — XIII

'KNOW YOUR COUNTY'

Fire Protection

1. Is there a county fire department or does fire protection come from other local governments? If there is a fire department, who heads it? Are there paid volunteer firemen? Is a training program provided for them?

There is no county fire department. In the various areas of the county the fire protection comes from the paid Borough of Warren unit, and 16 volunteer units which are located in other boroughs and townships.

The Warren County Active Volunteer Firemen's Association was formed in 1951 to set up a system to render mutual aid and promote activities beneficial to fighting fires. There are no paid volunteer firemen. In some cases when called to fight fires for the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, the men are paid a small fee. There is no county wide training as such. Each local unit provides its own training, usually on a weekly basis with actual practice drills as well as method instruction. The Annual Field Day provides inter-group competition in the various skills.

2. What fire-fighting equipment does your county own?

No equipment is county owned. The various units own about 50 trucks and emergency units. There are also six ambulances. Fifteen of the firehalls are equipped to activate sirens by radio. About 40 of the vehicles are radio equipped. There are 20 walkie-talkies. The Association adopted National Standard Thread for uniformity in making all connections. Officials of the county, boroughs, and the townships annually budget funds which assist with equipment purchases.

3. Do you have a fire-prevention program?

Fire Prevention Week is observed annually with publicity and open house at the various stations. The schools have a well defined, carefully supervised program of mandatory monthly fire drills.

4. Are there special fire-protection districts within your county?

Fire departments in the county are maintained at Bear Lake, Columbus, Warren, Clarendon, Garland, Glade, Lanier, North Warren, Pleasant, Russell, Sheffield, Spring Creek, Starbrick, Sugar Grove, Tidoute, Wrightsville, and Youngsville.

The Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Water provide equipment for fires in that category.

The Warren State Hospital, National Forge, and the United Refining Co. each have special fire fighting units.

Steele-ing The Sports Scene

A Funny Game

Baseball, as someone once observed, is a funny game and Steve Barber will readily attest to that fact. Losing a no-hitter is not unique, but anytime it happens it's news.

There are few instances in other sports that quite compare to it, unless it's the penalty kick in soccer when the goal tender is ordered out of the net after making countless saves to preserve his shutout, then losing 1-0.

Of course, a football team can keep its opponent from crossing its goal and still lose 3-0 because it gave up enough yardage to put the football in field goal range. Or how about the team that loses 2-0 on a safety because of a bad center on a punting situation deep in its own territory?

The most ludicrous situation in track, and one that happened recently in the county, is the disqualification of the winner for stepping on the infield after being bumped there by an opponent.

As Arthur Daley pointed out in a column about a week or so ago, a goalie in hockey can inadvertently kick or drop the puck into the goal mouth, thus "giving" the other team a point. Does the goalie get an assist?

A careful sky-diver packs his own chute, for a mistake 5,000 feet in the air can mean more than a game in the won and lost column. In basketball, a perfect game—if there's such an animal—can be ruined by a thoughtless coach drawing a technical foul with 10 seconds left in the game and the score tied 79-79.

The above examples of how one mistake can cost a ballgame are rare, but the unpredictable results of an athletic contest is what makes sports so attractive.

Warren Beverage, for example, has been known to drop a game or two, and some baseball people we've met in the last two years eagerly await the day. As the Beveragemen have learned, no one loves a winner.

And Corky Greenwood must have experienced a little of what Barber felt last week when he lost a two-hitter to Erie Prep. We hate to be an "I told you so," but the best pitcher in the world can't win without support at the plate and in the field.

Not to be a harbinger of doom, but it's also possible for Warren's track and field team to lose at Franklin on Thursday.

Who knows? Maybe even Cassius Clay will eventually see the error of his ways and elect the Army over Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary. All things are possible in sports.

Another Winner

Speaking of the Beveragemen, since only a smattering of fans found it convenient to be present for their opener Sunday, the rest of you may be interested to know that it looks like another winner will be representing your town this season.

From all indications, there will be a few new faces in the Beverage lineup, but the club should be at least as strong, if not stronger, as the team that won the 1966 Pennsylvania and Bi-State Championships.

A notable addition will be Kenny Martin at second base. With newly-wed Jim Hannon returning at third, hard-hitting Nick Creola at short and veteran Wink Rickerson at first, Martin's steady play should tighten up an already excellent infield considerably.

Incomparable Guy Conti will again be doing the catching and it looks like Tom Creola, Steve Kudlock and Ken Magowan in the outfield, no weaknesses there either.

The immediate problem may be pitching. Dick Lindamer, Bill Harper and Roy Swanson, with Magowan and Kudlock also taking a turn on the mound, could give the locals a top-flight staff if everything goes well.

The scouts are taking a close look at Harper, the Westminster College flash, and Swanson, however, and organized baseball is known to be a little stingy when it has a boy's name on a contract.

Lindamer's wife suffered the loss of a child last week and the likeable young righthander may not be available for duty immediately.

The brightest prospect we've seen with a chance for a berth on the Beverage roster is Danny Mellow, a '66 graduate of Erie Academy High School. A second baseman with good hands and a quick release on the double play, he may be used as an infield-outfield utility man if he continues to show his talent. He also swings a good bat and wouldn't hurt the Beverage attack.

Pat Anderson of Tidioute is another possible addition. He handles himself well in the outfield, but needs some work at the plate.

It's going to be a long season, but with Bill LaRosa at the helm there's no reason why the Beveragemen can't repeat as NBC Champions and maybe add the Glenwood League title to their long list of accomplishments.

And if we know Emmons Jones, he's not going to be satisfied with less than a trip West this year.

Mike Schurko, of Bethel Park, defending PIAA mile champ and cross country runner-up, will enroll at Penn State in September.

SETS JUMP MARK

John Zawacki, clearing the bar in an earlier meet at WAHS this season, came up with a 5-11 1/2 effort at Titusville yesterday to establish a new Dragon mark in the high jump. Pirates Move Into Second Place; Held Haunts Tribe

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Manny Mota drove in three runs and Roberto Clemente two last night as the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped St. Louis 8-5 for their fifth straight victory.

St. Louis now has lost four straight after winning nine of its first 12 games.

The victory boosted the Pirates into second place in the National League standings, 3 1/2 games behind the Cincinnati Reds. Mota singled home two runs in the Pirates' four-run uprising in the third inning and added a sacrifice fly in the ninth inning. He also singled and scored on Clemente's homer in the fifth.

Clemente stroked two other hits, both singles, as the Pirates exploded for 13 hits.

Billy O'Dell allowed the Cardinals just four hits — one of them Alex Johnson's first-inning homer — but was relieved by Pete Mikkelsen after running into control trouble in the eighth.

Al Jackson, who pitched a one-hitter in his last start, left in the third after Mota's single, the fifth hit in the inning.

Orioles-Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pinch hitter Woody Held slammed a three-run homer in the eighth inning as Baltimore came from five runs behind and defeated Cleveland 8-7 last night.

Held was the third part of a strategy duel between Orioles' Manager Hank Bauer and Cleveland's Joe Adcock. The Indians led 7-5 at the time.

After Dave Johnson and Paul Blair opened the eighth with singles, Bauer brought Russ Snyder up to bat for Andy Etchebarren. With a 1-0 count on Snyder, Adcock replaced pitcher George Culver with Bob Allen.

Held then came up to hit for

Zawacki Sets Jump Mark, Dragon Thinclads Rout Rockets, 122-28

TITUSVILLE — John Zawacki, Warren Area High School's senior high jumper, set a new school record in his event yesterday by clearing the bar at 5'11 1/2 as the Dragons rolled to an easy 122-28 win over the hometown Rockets.

The high jump record was formerly held by Gary Holcomb at 5'11. He set that mark in 1964.

Dragon coach Loyal Briggs shuffled his lineup in yesterday's meet. The lineup will be back to normal for today's meet with Meadville on the WAHS oval.

Winning races for the first time this year were Pan Fanaritis in the mile, Harry Spackman in the 220 and Larry Maxwell in the two mile run.

The Dragons won 14 of the 18 events. Titusville managed to win four events in the field while losing all the running events. The Rockets scored victories in the shot put, discus, javelin and pole vault.

Warren recorded sweeps in six running events and two field events.

The Dragons outscored the hosts 84-4 on the cinders, Titusville scored 24 points in the field, but the Dragons tallied 38.

Jim Beichner was the only double winner for the Dragons with firsts in the long jump, 18' and triple jump, 40'5". He also ran a leg of the victorious 880-relay.

Coach Briggs took it easy on his two mile runners, Bill Shaffer and Jim Oriole. They ran two relay races, the mile and two mile. Dave Cobb also had a relatively easy day, running only the 880 and 440. He won the half mile with a clocking of 2:07 and came back to take third in the 440.

Marc Segel won the high hurdles with a timing of 1:17.3. In the low hurdles, sophomore Chris Lytle scored a win over Segel with a time of 23.5. In the dash events, the Dragons' sophomore speedster Joe Cauley won the 100 with a time of 10.35. Junior Spackman won his first 220 of the year in a fast 24.1. He also anchored the 880 relay.

Danny O'Neill won the 440 in a good 54.25 and ran a leg of the mile relay.

Fanaritis took the mile with a time of 4:50. He led a contingent of three Dragons across the finish line. Following him were Gerry Grygo and Grover Cleveland.

Maxwell, running the two mile for the first time this year, clocked off the distance in 10:42.8. This is only about 12 seconds off the pace set by the regular runner, Billy Shaffer. Wayne McCartney, also in the event for the first time, finished second with Allen Poust taking a third.

The poorest showing of the day for the Dragons came in the pole vault where all they could muster was a third by Rick Nasman. The winning height was 11'3".

In the other three events that the Dragons lost, they took at least second spots. Darrell Pusateri was next-best in the shot put. Mike Blech was second in the discus and Jeff Barich runnerup in the javelin.

The Dragons will put their unbeaten (6-0) mark on the line against Meadville today. Possibly the toughest meet of the year will come Thursday when the Blue and White journey to Franklin.

Warren's Golf Team Blasted by Rockets

The Warren Area High School golf team fell for the second time in two meets yesterday as Titusville whipped the locals 15 1/2 to 1/2 at Conewango Valley Country Club.

The lone tally recorded for the Dragons came off the clubs of Gene Smith in the number three position.

Next match for the Dragons will be a triangular match Thursday at Wanango Country Club against Oil City and Meadville.

Local Mermaid Places 6th in Rochester Meet

Warren's Jane Schaeffer finished sixth in the 100-yd freestyle event in the Open age group at the Third Annual Spring Age Group and Open Swimming Meet sanctioned by the AAU at the Perkins Swim Club in Rochester, N.Y.

Jane and her brother Mark represented the Jamestown Boys Club at the two day event held over the past weekend. Mark entered the 100-yard freestyle, 50 and 100-yard freestyle races but failed to qualify for the finals in any of the events.

There were approximately 1000 swimmers representing 33 swim clubs, YMCA's and Boys Clubs at the meet. Included in the entries were six teams from Canada as well as teams from Cleveland, Akron, Mt. Laurel, N.J., Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Erie, Rochester, Buffalo, Ithaca, Schenectady, Syracuse and Jamestown.

City League Sets Slate For Season

With opening night three weeks away, the City Softball League has organized its schedule and playoffs. This was done at a meeting held at the Sons of Italy Recreation Center last night.

The loop, which consists of five teams, will play two 12 game halves. The winners of the two halves will meet in a best of three playoff to determine the top team in the league.

There will also be a Shaughnessy playoff for the four teams having the best combined first and second half records.

It was also announced that the Wilson ball has been adopted by the league for the upcoming season. Each team will be supplied with 14 balls to start the season.

The next meeting will be next Monday at the American Legion at 8:30 p.m. All sponsor's fees are due at this time. The league will draw up ground rules and rules of conduct at this meeting.

Groundskeeper Ordered from Tribe's Dugout

CHICAGO (AP) — Freshman Manager Joe Adcock of the Cleveland Indians has done something in Comiskey Park that had not been done there in 36 years.

He tossed Gene Bossard, head groundskeeper for the White Sox, out of the Indians' dugout Sunday.

Since 1931, Bossard has been parking himself in the visitors' dugout at the first approach of threatening weather. The tarpaulin for covering the infield is stored only 20 feet away and Bossard wants to be ready at a moment's notice to direct its unfolding.

The tarp was used between games of Sunday's doubleheader then re-rolled for the second game. Rain again was threatening so Bossard strolled to his accustomed spot. But Adcock told him to move on.

Adcock was entirely within his rights and Bossard took it with a smile.

"I imagine I'll get a message from Marshall and Harold about this," laughed Bossard.

They are his brothers. They are groundskeepers for the Cleveland Indians.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Sports-caster Hap Gladi of WWL-TV said last night Jimmy Taylor had signed a contract for $100,000 to play with the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League.

Taylor, a veteran of a decade with the Green Bay Packers, became a free agent yesterday after refusing to sign a contract with the world champions.

Neither Taylor nor Saints' officials could be reached for comment on Gladi's report. Gladi said an official announcement of the contract would come in three or four days after it had been formally approved by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

BUT WILL REMAIN AS HAWKS' COACH

Richie Guerin Surprise Pick in NBA Expansion

By JACK HAND
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Player-coach Richie Guerin of the St. Louis Hawks was a surprise selection by the new Seattle team in yesterday's expansion draft in the National Basketball Association.

Guerin, who has announced his retirement as a player, undoubtedly will never join the Seattle club but will continue as the St. Louis coach.

Seattle and San Diego each selected 15 players from the current NBA rosters as part of their $1,750,000 entry fee. Each of the 10 clubs that operated in the 1966-67 season lost three men. Each was allowed to freeze seven players. After one was taken, they could freeze one more.

Both Coach Al Bianchi of Seattle and Jack McMahon of San Diego said they were pleased with the players they had picked.

While the new clubs were picking the veterans, the Detroit Pistons announced a press conference for this morning. As the Pistons have the No. 1 pick in tomorrow's college draft, there was speculation that the club had signed Jimmy Walker, the Providence All-American.

Walker, the top scorer among the nation's major college teams last season and an outstanding playmaker, has been drafted by the Indianapolis team of the fledgling American Basketball Association.

Explaining his selection of Guerin, Bianchi said, "he has retired twice. Now I know he is not going to play, I don't have to worry about him coming back in the middle of the season. After all, they are in our division."

Bianchi, who was active in the choice of the Chicago Bulls when they were formed in the expansion draft last year, said this was an entirely different operation.

"We were the only new team last year," said Bianchi. "Now there are two teams. It made it extremely difficult, figuring out who the other guy would pick and who the clubs would freeze on the second chance."

"There was one real surprise — Jim McGlocklin of Cincinnati. I didn't expect he would be on the list."

As McGlocklin went to McMahon's San Diego team, it appeared he was among the first, if not the first, to be selected. The NBA did not announce the order of the draft. San Diego did have the first choice.

"We are real pleased," said McMahon. "We feel we have a quick team and a good combination although there is not a whole lot of size. We did better than anticipated."

San Diego's big men were Henry Finkel, 7-footer from Dayton and the Los Angeles Lakers; Wayne Morris, 6-8 of the New York Knicks; and Toby Kimball, 6-8 of the Boston Celtics. McMahon took only one man from the champion Philadelphia 76ers, 6-6 Dave Gambee, but grabbed both Kimball and Jim Barnett from the Boston Celtics. San Francisco, the Western Division winner, lost Paul Neumann to San Diego and Bud Olsen and Tom Meschery to Seattle.

"We got some good kids," said Bianchi, "some of those young boys never really got a chance. We had the same situation last year in Chicago and many of them came through for us. Given a chance to play, they will hustle. And we have some older guys to give us a good mixture. Most of them are people who can play both ways."

Bianchi said he was a little surprised that Meschery, drafted from the San Francisco Warriors, had announced his retirement.

Even if I had known it, I would have taken a gamble on him," said Bianchi. "I think I have a chance of talking him out of it."

Neumann, an experienced backcourt player, was reported quitting pro ball to become freshman coach at Stanford.

Warrior Vet Selected, Will Retire

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tom Meschery, San Francisco Warriors' forward and a six-year basketball professional, is retiring from the game.

Meschery told The Associated Press yesterday he advised Franklin Miesel two weeks ago that he would retire at the end of the 1967 season.

Miesel owns the Warriors. Meschery was acquired by Seattle in the National Basketball Association's expansion draft yesterday.

"I am not tired of basketball," Meschery said. "I am looking into the future and what is best for me in the long range. I didn't want to go into the 30s playing basketball."

Meschery, who is 28, played an important role in the Warriors' stand against the Philadelphia 76ers in the recent playoff finals.

The basketball star said he has been offered a government job, but can't say anything about it until after July 1, start of the government's fiscal year. He said he would have played one more season with the Warriors if he hadn't received the offer.

Before turning professional with the Philadelphia Warriors, later the San Francisco Warriors, Meschery gained basketball fame playing with St. Mary's College at Moraga, Calif.

Maple Leaf Coach Counts On Ending Series Tonite

TORONTO (AP) — The Stanley Cup playoffs will be over tonight, says Toronto Coach Punch Imlach. Period. He has no other comment.

"We'll wind it up here," Imlach said after a long practice session yesterday. "We don't even have transportation booked for a return trip to Montreal. We haven't even tried."

The Leafs hold a 3-2 bulge over the Montreal Canadiens in the best-of-seven final set for Lord Stanley's cup that symbolizes professional hockey supremacy.

The sixth game is scheduled on Toronto's ice tonight. The seventh game, if necessary, will be in Montreal Thursday.

"We won't be going to Montreal," said Imlach. "I have nothing else to say."

Neither Imlach nor Montreal coach Toe Blake has made a decision on their goalie for tonight's game.

Rookie Rogation Vachon was the victim of all Toronto's goals in the Leafs' 4-1 victory Saturday. He was replaced in the nets by veteran Gump Worsley in the final period.

Blake said he wouldn't make a decision until "just before game time."

Vachon was struck on the neck by a puck fired by teammate Gary Peters during the Canadiens' practice in Montreal yesterday. The shot raised an ugly, red welt but Vachon continued to practice.

"Vachon, Worsley, it doesn't make any difference," shrugged Imlach.

Johnny Bower, Toronto's 42-year-old regular goalie, has been out of action with a leg injury in the Leafs' last two games and did not practice yesterday.

"I'm surprised he didn't come out to skate," Imlach said. "I guess he didn't feel he was ready."

If he isn't ready tonight veteran lefty Terry Sawchuk, who had an outstanding effort in the fifth game—will take over.

Dick Duff, now with the Canadiens and formerly with the Maple Leafs, said the key to a Canadian victory is Montreal's edge in speed.

"Get the puck out of your own zone real fast," he said. "Get in on the Toronto defense and either dump the puck in or go in around them."

"In other words, you have to get the puck out of your own end quickly and get down to the Toronto defense before the Toronto wingers can come back."

"If you're the least bit slow, the Toronto wingers will come back and the defense will just stand there and pick the puck off your stick."

"It's a matter of our wings getting one stride on them coming out of our zone," Perkins said.

LA Olympic Trials Site; St. Louis Pan-Am Choice

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — The amazing, 12-voter Village of Champions near St. Louis, Mo., was selected yesterday as the United States candidate for the 1971 Pan-American Games, and the blue ribbon trials for the 1968 Olympic Games were awarded the Los Angeles-Long Beach area.

The Village of Champions proposes to build a vast sports complex, including a covered 1.8-mile flat racing horse track, the parimutuel profits from which would finance an ambitious amateur sports program. Racing, however, is presently illegal in Missouri.

Bill Bangert, former national shotput champion, and general chairman of the Missouri Olympic-Spirit of '76 Committee, said the Village of Champions would be asked to vote a "several hundred million dollar bond issue — and we have never yet cast a dissenting vote on a bond issue."

St. Louis is also a bidder for the 1976 Olympics.

In all, Los Angeles won the Olympic trials next year in 11 sports. Announcement of the trials and the selection of the Village of Champions was made by Arthur G. Lentz, executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee.

The men's and women's track and field trials will be held on two days during the July 5-7 period in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Between Aug. 25 and Sept. 2 of next year, the trials will take place in the Los Angeles metropolitan area in men's and women's canoeing and kayaking, cycling, men's and women's swimming and diving, men's and women's fencing, men's and women's gymnastics, rowing, volleyball, water polo, weightlifting, and 5.5 meter yachting at Newport Beach.

Men's trials in basketball for the Mexico City Games will be held between April 4 and 7 in Albuquerque, N. M. The equestrian trials probably will be held at the equestrian team training center in Gladstone, N.J., with shooting at Fort Benning, Ga., and the modern pentathlon at either Fort Sam Houston in Texas or Newtown Square, Pa.

Volleyball trials in Los Angeles will only be held if the women qualify for the Olympics by winning the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg, Canada, this summer, and if the men's team finishes first or second at Winnipeg.

Bangert, 1945 and 1946 National AAU shotput champion, who went blind after his victories and then regained his sight, was enthusiastic over the possibilities of the vast sports complex.

He said it was planned to house all the stadiums, pools and arenas of the Pan-American Games — similar in scope to the Olympic Games — in the 100-acre infield of the race track. The whole area would hold 300,000.

Rule Jones' Turbine OK at Indy

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A 155 mile per hour speed limit for early season practice was lifted yesterday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway and three drivers zoomed over 160 m.p.h. almost immediately.

The controversial STP gas turbine car, entered by Studebaker, was approved for track trials by the U.S. Auto Club technical committee. Parnelli Jones will drive the car. Final inspection will be made after qualifying runs.

Dan Gurney, worldwide competitor from Santa Ana, Calif., toured the course at 163.874 in one of his All-American Eagles.

Other fast runs in practice for the 500-mile race May 30 included 162.162 by Jimmy Clark of Scotland, the 1965 winner, and 160.3 by Joe Leonard, a former motorcycle champion from San Jose, Calif.

Clark was driving a new Lotus-Ford and Leonard a Coyote-Ford.

Pedro Rodriguez of Mexico City, winner of the South African Grand Prix early this year, and Richie Ginther of Santa Ana, one of Gurney's teammates, completed familiarization runs over the Speedway and peeled the "rookie" stripes from their cars.

A downpour of rain closed the track in mid-afternoon.

Iranian Federation Joins Clay Censure

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The Iranian Boxing Federation yesterday backed the action of American boxing commissions in stripping Cassius Clay of his world heavyweight boxing title. Ali Abdoh, the head of the Iranian Federation, in a statement to the newspaper Kayhan, said Clay's refusal to join the Army deserved such punishment.

"Boating may not be as safe as ever," he warned.

The Coast Guard called astonishing a 67 per cent rise in personal injuries and a 55 per cent increase in property damage sustained by boats during 1966. Injuries rose from 927 in 1965 to 1,555 last year, the report showed.

Of the 5,567 boats involved in accidents during 1966, total damages of more than $7 million were sustained by 3,226 of them, a $2.5 million increase over 1965.

At the end of 1966, the nation's boating fleet was estimated at 8.2 million craft, 200,000 more than the total a year earlier. Capsizing remained the main cause of fatal boating accidents last year. Almost half the victims—621—died as a result of a capsized boat. The Coast Guard said that except in the most unusual cases, persons should remain with an overturned boat.

Houston, Miami, New York and Dallas originally bid for the Pan-American candidacy along with the Village of Champions but only Dallas and the Village of Champions made a formal presentation.

Benvenuti Gets Nose Job Today

MILAN, Italy (AP) — World middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti entered a hospital yesterday for surgery on his nose, raising a strong possibility that his return bout with Emile Griffith would be delayed.

Benvenuti suffered a deep cut on his nose while taking a unanimous decision from the former champion in New York's Madison Square Garden April 17.

A return bout has been scheduled for New York July 13. Benvenuti will be operated on today. His manager, Bruno Amaduzzi, said the champion will have to rest at least a month after the surgery.

Big Mike And Papa Bear

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

NEW YORK — Mike Ditka is a burly citizen with a muscular knack for shouldering his way out of jams and bullying his way into the clear. As the tight end on the Chicago Bears, he was marvelously proficient at catching the ball amid swarms of tacklers and shaking himself free. The other day he performed an even more prodigious feat. He escaped from the clutches of his boss, George Halas, the acquisitive and possessive Papa Bear, while the entire National Football League breathed thankful signs of relief.

It has been a very sticky situation, one that could have led to nasty consequences and perhaps even disrupted the merger plans of the two pro leagues. But explosive repercussions were avoided when the Bears traded Ditka to the Philadelphia Eagles for Jack Concannon, a young quarterback of considerable promise, thereby propping up the one department where they were weakest.

That lovely root of all evil, money, precipitated the showdown. The 230-pound Mike is an intense and hard-headed man. So is Halas. Although Ditka had been a four-time choice as all league tight end, the Papa Bear refused to pay him a salary commensurate with his talents. Or so Big Mike thought and promptly delivered as insulting a crack as any employee ever leveled at an employer.

"Halas tosses around nickels as if they were manhole covers," said the angry Mike. Halas failed to recognize the humor in the remark.

At any rate Ditka announced before the start of the 1966 season that he was playing out his option. This is the device, not often used, whereby a player signs only for the season immediately ahead and refuses to give a lien on his services for the following season. This makes him a free agent.

Approximately a year ago the American Football League decided it was not gaining fast enough for the NFL by hands-off tactics. It ditched the gentlemanly Joe Foss as commissioner and brought in Al Davis, a rowdy street fighter, to run the show. Davis declared open warfare on the NFL and instituted talent raids. Among those willing to jump to the AFL were John Brodie of the 49ers' Roman Gabriel of the Rams, and Ditka.

Don Klosterman of the Houston Oilers even paid Ditka $50,000 to play out his option so that he could legally join Houston for the 1967 season. Moves such as these caused an alarmed NFL to agree to a merger. It's presumed that part of the peace price was the nullification of all raids consummated or contemplated.

The Oilers' 50 grand already was in the Ditka bank account, however. What to do? The big end wasn't going to give it back any more than he'd be willing to have a football wrested out of his arms. Besides he was ready to carry out his part of the deal. Yet Klosterman, a clever and realistic general manager, didn't even squawk.

"Consider it an investment that didn't pay off," he said. It's a cinch that Halas didn't pay a $50,000 ransom. He has far too much respect for a dollar bill. Maybe the NFL did or maybe the Oilers really kissed it off as part of the peace package. It's not especially important because money is what the NFL and Bud Adams' Oilers have the most of.

The Bear-Eagle trade was a pressure deal because it had to be made before the May 1 expiration date of the Ditka contract. Considering that he arranged it well over a barrel, Halas did rather well. In Concannon he got a 24-year-old quarterback with high potentials as a future replacement for his elderly pair of Rudy Bukich and Billy Wade.

The original rumor was that Norm Snead would be the Eagle quarterback to go to Chicago for Ditka. Although Snead is more experienced, he never will be great while the relatively untested Concannon might be great some day, although that still has to be proved. Sideline observers can't figure out, though, whether it was Halas or Joe Kuharich, the Eagle head man, who made the decision on Snead or Concannon.

At any rate, Ditka should make Snead a better quarterback. Big Mike is a fiendish blocker and he's a real gangbuster at catching passes in a crowd. He caught only about half his usual quota last year, mainly because the Bears disregarded him and threw passes elsewhere. That's what the embittered Mike charged, although the idea is rather preposterous. Halas would order passes thrown to the Devil himself if it helped his beloved Bears win.

The important thing, however, is that the Ditka case was settled amicably. It could have spiraled into an ugly mess.

OFF AND WINNING

New Starting Procedure Planned at Area Tracks

A "top 15" method will be used to line up cars in the late model feature events this summer at Eriez and Stetline Speedways.

Racing dates are fast approaching at both tracks, with Eriez planning to open at 8 p.m. on Sunday, May 13, and Stetline prying the lid off the local racing season at 8:30 the previous night.

Regular drivers with good records will get preference in the feature starts this year. The top 15 men in the point standings will be started in reverse order, with the remaining qualifiers strung out behind.

Promoter Lloyd Williams figures this will result in an added break for track "regulars" — and may also eliminate nasty, time-consuming first-lap pileups which have been so frequent in recent years.

However, should the system prove to be unpopular, the tracks will reserve the right to resume the old complete reverse method of starting.

Eriez and Stetline will run their regular programs through the summer of 1967, with Eriez running at 8 p.m. on Sunday nights and Stetline presenting racing each Saturday night at 8:30. There will be a total of at least 10 races in late model and sportsman divisions.

Buc Farm Sites

Pittsburgh Pirate farm system teams this year are Columbus, Ohio; Macon, Ga.; Raleigh, N.C.; Clinton, Iowa; Gastonia, N.C.; and Salem, Va.

While here they also enjoyed a pleasant visit with friends before returning to Springfield.

MEMO TO MANAGEMENT

Here's how Blue Cross[®] can save you money.

You get these six important benefits:

NO PAPERWORK ON CLAIMS

Blue Cross handles claims directly with the hospital. You don't have a single claim form to fill out. Your office personnel is freed for more productive work directly concerned with your business—and your profits. By eliminating claim handling, many a company has found it could reassign employees to other work when it changed to Blue Cross.

LESS LOST TIME

When your employee returns to work after hospitalization, he doesn't waste time in the personnel office answering questions and filling out forms. Insurance carriers require a claim to be completed by the employee. But only Blue Cross handles the claim for the employee. Do your employees have to spend several hours filing claims under your present program?

CLEAR-CUT HEALTH CARE COSTS

Blue Cross writes only health care protection. You always know exactly what you or your employees are paying. Rates are reviewed periodically to reflect current hospital costs and usage. Are you really sure there are advantages to a package deal?

BETTER MORALE

With Blue Cross, your employees have less anxiety about the cost of their own illness—or their families'. They know the Blue Cross reputation for providing coverage-in-full in the great majority of cases.

QUICKER EMPLOYEE ACCEPTANCE

Blue Cross is the best-known hospitalization plan in Western Pennsylvania. (Half the businesses in this area have Blue Cross groups.) You don't have to sell Blue Cross to your employees. They know it makes your firm a better place to work.

ONE CONTRACT COVERS YOU NATIONWIDE

If your company operates outside Western Pennsylvania, a uniform national Blue Cross contract can be tailored to meet the health care needs of your employees anywhere in the nation or the world. Blue Cross of Western Pennsylvania handles all details with other Blue Cross Plans for you.

Your employees get these important benefits:

FULL COVERAGE IN 9 OUT OF 10 CASES

Your employees get the hospital care they need when they need it. They don't leave the hospital to find a large bill waiting for them. In Western Pennsylvania, over 90% of all Blue Cross cases are covered in full. It helps a man get well faster if he's not worried about how much he will have to pay for being sick.

NO WAITING FOR REIMBURSEMENT

When an employee goes to the hospital, he doesn't need to make a deposit. He simply presents his Blue Cross card. When he is discharged from the hospital, he doesn't have to pay cash for his stay, submit a claim, and then wait to be reimbursed for the portion of the hospital charges his insurance program covers.

95% OF INCOME GOES FOR CARE

During the past five years, in Western Pennsylvania, more than 95% of all subscription income was returned to subscribers in actual hospital care benefits. For this same five-year period, ending in 1965, the insurance companies listed in the Health Insurance Index of The Spectator returned to policyholders a combined aggregate average of 74% of each premium dollar received. (This includes claims for accident and health, hospital, and medical coverage.)

Blue Cross works closely with your community hospitals

COMMUNITY HEALTH CARE CONCERN

Blue Cross has been working constructively with hospitals for nearly 30 years. This productive, beneficial partnership has the common goal of better health care for the community at the lowest possible cost. Because of this similarity of purpose, hospitals accept reimbursement from Blue Cross on the basis of their actual audited costs rather than regularly established charges.

EFFICIENT USE OF HOSPITALS

Doctors, hospitals, and Blue Cross work closely together to find ways to assure the most efficient and economical use of hospital facilities. This cooperative program, begun here in Western Penn-sylvia over seven years ago, has received wide national acclaim. It benefits you and your employees.

REDUCED ADMINISTRATION COSTS

Blue Cross is working with hospitals in a number of programs designed to help hospitals save money. For example, Blue Cross data processing equipment is used to prepare payrolls for many hospitals in Western Pennsylvania; accounting systems are handled on this equipment for other hospitals. Such services, available to hospitals at cost, mean savings to the entire community.

Blue Cross gives you most for your money

We'd like to show you how Blue Cross can do the best job—at the lowest cost—for you, your company, and your employees.

Blue Cross in Western Pennsylvania now serves more than 14,000 groups—ranging in size from two employees to more than 100,000 employees. How about your company? Find out why Blue Cross sells more hospital care coverage in Western Pennsylvania than all other companies combined. Call or write your local Blue Cross office.

Teachers Hold Seminar at Main Edinboro Campus

Four Warren County educators attended a conference on "The Teacher and His Staff" at Edinboro State College Saturday.

At the meeting were Frederick Bauer, Eisenhower High School principal; Charles R. Anderson, school district administrator of research and certification; Michael Schultz, teacher of French and English at Eisenhower High School; and Mrs. Elizabeth Perkins, teacher at Tidoute Elementary School.

The Edinboro assembly was one of 100 in selected cities throughout the country considering at the same time innovations involving the use of educators and non-educators in the schools.

The gatherings are a phase of the Year of the Non-Conference sponsored by the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards (NCTEPS) of the National Education Association.

The program is and is being sponsored in the Commonwealth by the Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA).

The program, which ran from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., opened with a taped address featuring U.S. Education Commissioner Harold Howe II; Dr. Sam M. Lambert, assistant executive secretary for Information Services of the NEA and Dr. James Olivero, assistant executive secretary of the NCTEPS. Consultants from schools utilizing new techniques and innovations then discussed methods of involvement of teachers, specialists, and teacher and technological aids. Participants also saw "The Quiet Revolution," a film produced by the NCTEPS, which shows how auxiliary personnel have been used with success by administrators, teachers and students.

The persons taking part in the program then split up into groups and discussed the purposes and roles of paraprofessionals in the classroom. Donald Davies, executive secretary of the NCTEPS, has said of supportive staff and services: "The idea has been put into effect in many of our schools and the result has been teachers can spend more time teaching and less time performing menial tasks like monitoring cafeterias and doing routine clerical work.

Dr. Wade Wilson, PSEA president, has said that although he does not believe auxiliary help can ever replace the teacher, aides can release him from peripheral tasks and menial chores.

Rotary Hears New Therapy Methods

Yesterday was Crippled Children's day at Warren Rotary Club. Mrs. Horace Cray, president Crippled Children's Committee of Warren County, thanked Rotarians for their help over the past 42 years in supporting the work of the society. Mrs. Cray reported more than 300 children are now under the care of the committee.

Crippled Children's Committee nurse Mrs. Mary Dickerson and physiotherapist Andrew J. Yurick also represented the Committee. All were introduced by Rotary Crippled Children's chairman William E. Lutz.

Yurick gave an account of his experience in Philadelphia learning the techniques of the Doman and Delecatto methods, generally known for remarkable results with children and adults with brain damage, through techniques called "patterning." Yurick had with him two youngsters who had been restored through this work, to normal development and activity.

President Norman Johnson reminded Rotarians the club meets next Monday, but there will be no program. It is Rotary Radio Day with members taking turns as announcers over WNAE-WRRN.

Guests included Warren Area High School seniors Cathy Eberhardt and Karen Griffin. Rotarians who were guests were Reuben Maser of Jamestown, W. W. Waterson of Bradford, and Past District Governor and honorary member of Warren Rotary, Allan J. Scilly of Pittsfield. Dr. John Roop introduced his guest, Kenneth Wolfe, a research technician at Warren State Hospital who is making special studies in anatomy and circulation.

Frank Christy announced the President's Night program May 22 at St. Paul's Center in Saybrook.

Scandia VFD Meets

Members of the Scandia Volunteer Fire Department will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the CB Rangers Hall. Andy Marfink of the state Forests and Waters Department will show an outdoors film. The session is open to the public.

Explorers Visit Air Base

The group of explorers from several Chief Cornplanter Council Boy Scout Council had a busy weekend excursion to Niagara Falls Air Base.

They slept overnight at Lockport Air Force Base. Their meals were at Niagara Falls Air Base. The young men and their leaders, Eugene Lucia and Irvin Stenberg, of Ludlow Explorer Post 50, made an extended tour of the base from 9 to 11:45 a.m. Saturday.

They then made a tour of the Niagara Falls area, including a trip in the cable car over the whirlpool rapids from the Canadian side, Brock monument, the Welland Canal and other points. Also visited were the wax museum, Seagram and Schenley Towers, flower clock, Niagara power project, returning to the Niagara Falls Air Base for their evening meal. That evening they were guests at a dance arranged for them, with young girls from the families on the base.

The slept again at Lockport Air Force Base barracks, breakfasted at Niagara Air Force Base, where they attended church services. After lunch they checked out, and on the return trip visited the Buffalo Zoo. The group arrived at their charter bus in Warren about 2 p.m. They had covered a total of 346 miles.

Akeley Man Hurt

The drivers of two cars involved in an accident at 1 a.m. Saturday on Route 60 in the Town of Carroll were admitted to WCA Hospital. They were John Putnam, 22, of Akeley and John Paterniti, 20, of Jamestown, N.Y. State police in New York State said Paterniti was traveling west on Route 60 and after passing another westbound car, apparently veered off to the north side of the highway, lost control of his car which skidded sideways across the highway, striking the Putnam car.

Police Officials Investigate Three Area Camp Thefts

Chief Deputy Sheriff Richard E. Hegerty and Trooper Gary L. Rain of the Warren Substation are investigating three camp burglaries on Egypt Hollow rd.

Burglary charges have been filed against three area suspects and warrants issued for their arrest. Police said the trio, a man and two girls, are believed to have been in the county between April 21 and 25. The burglaries were discovered Saturday, according to Rain.

The man is said by deputies to be a member of "The Children," formerly called "God's Children."

Taken from the camps were towels, food and other household goods.

The police officers filed the charges before Peace Justice Frederick Berry yesterday.

County-Wide Bloodmobile Drive Scheduled This Month

Inspired by the fine response which marked the April collection, blood recruitment forces of Warren County Chapter of the Red Cross are preparing for a countywide campaign for donors in a two-day visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile in May.

Split visits on May 16 and 17 will find the Bloodmobile in four different locations in Warren County, giving practically all parts of the area served by Warren Chapter an opportunity to do their share in the blood program.

A collection of 153 pints in April cut the deficit of Warren County in the blood program materially, but the chapter is still far below the quota assigned for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Visits will be made to Eisenhower High School at Lander and Chapter House in Warren on Tuesday, May 16, with the visit to Chapter House featuring a Warren Area High School donor recruitment effort. Eisenhower High long has been a leader in the scholastic donor response and has won two plaques for outstanding contributions to the blood program. Hours at Lander will be from 12 to 6 and at Chapter House from 11 to 5. The later hours are expected to help in the response by donors, particularly students and teachers.

The Bloodmobile will visit Youngsville and Sheffield on Wednesday, May 17 with headquarters as usual at St. Francis of Assisi Episcopal Church in Youngsville and at the Methodist Church in Sheffield. Hours at Youngsville will be from 11 to 5 and at Sheffield from 12 to 6, with the senior classes of the two high schools in the towns being counted on to give both efforts a big lift. Tidoute also is forming a special recruiting force under the leadership of Mrs. Bruce Ziegler and hopes to send a large group of donors from the Tidoute area to Youngsville to swell the response.

Officials of the blood program have visited several of the schools in enlisting the active support of students. Donors must be 18 years of age and must have their parents' consent, which necessitates signing of permit slips, which have been distributed in the various buildings. Members of senior classes who will reach 18 in later month and who will sign to give blood upon attaining the minimum age will receive credit for their schools as potential donors.

The four-place visitation on the two days, carrying the Bloodmobile to all parts of the county, affords a fine opportunity for all residents of the area to get behind the blood program. A sharp drop in collections during the fall and winter months threatened a corresponding decrease in available blood for Warren County needs and chapter officials are hopeful that the May response will follow the sharp upturn recorded in April and bring the year's total to a figure approaching the goal set by Buffalo Regional Center. An ample supply of blood to meet all local requirements thus will be insured.

Enlistment of donors gets actively under way in all four areas this week. While spearheaded by the seniors in the high schools in the four communities, the donors will not be limited to the students but will include adults as well. Teachers in several of the buildings already are enrolling with the Warren County Education Association at its recent meeting showing increased interest in the blood program. Paul Myers of the Beatty Junior High School faculty, a regular donor, spoke in behalf of the program.

Donors are urged to register with their respective recruitment committees as early as possible. Registration may be made at Chapter House by donors of the various districts, if desired. The phone number is 723-6000.

CHILDREN START THREE

Seven Forest Fires Reported in County

District Forester Robert K. Ache yesterday reported seven forest fires broke out Sunday in District 14. Five were in Warren County and two in Venango County.

Three were caused by children playing with matches. Heart's Content area was endangered by careless smokers. One was started by carelessness in burning trash. One in Venango County was started by carelessness of a camper, and the other was believed to have been ignited by the sun through broken bottles which acted as a lens.

Ache said the fact there was no high wind helped keep the fires under control and extinguished in short order.

"Even though the grass in the valleys is becoming green," he warns, "fields in the higher elevations are still dry and burn readily. Leaves on the forest floor are cured, and will normally burn freely until new leaves come out on the trees to provide shade to hold moisture on the ground."

The spring fire season, he says, usually extends to Memorial Day.

Ache congratulated fishermen on their care against fire and smoking in the woods. With thousands of fishermen on the streams in Warren County, none of these fires is attributed to them.

The first fire broke out at 12:07 p.m. Sunday. This was a brush fire near Weldbank, and burned more than an acre. It was caused by an unattended camp fire. Leonard Falbriski, forest fire warden, and Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department responded. They had the blaze under control by 12:40, and remained at the scene until 2 p.m. to make sure there would not be another breakout.

At 12:25 p.m., in the Picadilly Hill area, Columbus Township, a fire broke out on the Oscar Nielson property. A half-acre of forest land was burned. Fire Warden Paul McKay and the Spring Creek and Columbus Volunteer Fire Departments both responded. This fire was caused by careless trash burning.

The third forest fire was on Sanford Road near Grand Valley. It broke out at 1:27 p.m. Two acres of forest land were burned before it was put out. Under control at 3:10 p.m., it was finally all out at 3:45. This destructive fire was caused by children playing with matches. Fire Warden Charles Beers responded first. He called for more help and Fire Warden Harold Williams and the Garland Volunteer Fire Department responded.

At 4:30 p.m. in Warren Borough, and in Glade Township, a fire broke out at Branch and Dahl st. One and a half acres of forest land burned over. This fire was also caused by children playing with matches. Warren Borough Fire Department took the call and responded immediately. They called for more help, and were assisted by Fire Warden Derwin Stenstrom, and Glade Township Volunteer Fire Department. The fire started inside the borough limits, then spread into Glade Township lands.

Perhaps the most serious threat was a fire at the Heart's Content Fire Tower, reported about 6:30 p.m. to the Warren Borough Fire Department. Pleasant Township Volunteer Fire Department responded. Upon arriving at the Heart's Content Fire Tower they found one tenth of an acre of forest land was burning. Because there was little wind, it was blazing slowly. Threatened was the plantation of trees planted twelve years ago, and the famous Heart's Content virgin forest with its mammoth trees. It was evident it was caused by careless smokers. Fire Warden Joseph Hoobler was active in getting this fire extinguished.

The two fires in Venango County were still small when discovered. One in Cherry Tree township burned two and one half acres of forest land, caused by children playing with matches. The other in Sugar Creek Township, near Gallaway, was put out after a half-acre was burned over. This fire was believed caused by the sun shining through broken bottles.

Scholarships have been awarded to two history teachers at Warren Area High School through the National Defense Education Act. Robert Fey, and William Oelslager, are among 35 teachers selected in the entire United States. Fey will be going to Michigan State University for advanced placement of American History. Oelslager goes to Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., for advanced placement in Cultural European history. Both are members of the Pennsylvania Council for Social Studies and the National Council. Oelslager is also on the state council's board of directors. (Photo by Mansfield)

Humane Society Has Portable Dog Homes

Portable homes for dogs have been offered the Warren County Humane Society by the Erie Humane Society, until stationary kennels for stray dogs can be built. The local group, however, has no place to set up the temporary abodes.

Members are urged to attend the monthly May meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Warren County Dairy club rooms on Lookout st.

Instead of improving the situation in regard to dogs in this area gets worse, with no shelter for homeless dogs, no place to show them to secure new homes and lack of funds for carrying on the work.

All directors, members and any who will offer help are invited to the meeting tomorrow evening.

Mrs. Joseph Smith, active field director, said "very nice"

Buckle those seat belts every time you get behind the wheel. It takes only a few seconds to increase your chances against the crippling or fatal results of an accident. And state police also have a word for the children. Cars cannot stop as quickly as bike riders. Therefore, children should walk their bikes across intersections

Sheffield Man Posts Bail on Morals Charge

A 34-year-old Sheffield man has been charged with corrupting or intending to corrupt the morals of a minor.

Arrested at 1:25 a.m. Sunday by Lt. Bernard Winegardner and Officer Robert R. Kates was George F. Martin, of 9 Center st., Sheffield. Martin was released later Sunday morning on $300 cash bail posted by a bondsman.

Police said the arrest stemmed from two separate complaints received by the department Saturday in which two youths, both 16, were allegedly involved. One complaint, according to police, was on an attempted pickup, the second, picking up a youthful hitchhiker.

Town Crier

... By Les Rickey

Whether we like it or not, we are run-of-the-mill average citizens living in the Super Age.

This is the era of the ultra-king-size cigarette, which gets cut off in elevator doors. This is the time for super-heroes of special color television programs. This is the age of the super-transport aircraft, the 150-mph passenger train, and the GTO 375 supermobile that years ago belonged only to Batman and the Green Hornet.

Computers use their super-logic to ferret out the most minute details of our workaday lives; these infallible gadgets not only know things about us that we never dreamed of ourselves, but they file and classify them as though someone really cares about it.

We no longer have the flour-paste or the mucilage of yesterday. Now we use epoxy resins, the super-glue that is stronger than the wood or glass itself. Weldwood has replaced the oaken and cedar panelling. Cement blocks as a business has made brickworks a thing of the past. And steel is stainless.

We have super-pollution, brought on by our supercars and super-factories. Some escape with LSD, the super-drug, which induces hyper-hallucinations and superior sickness.

But you don't need the drugs. There are superhighways which can give you a monumental case of nervous breakdown. A day in Chicago riding the mass transit will prepare you for years of super-silent recuperation in a 10-acre rest center with soundproofed walls.

And the future, it boggles the mind. People flying around with jetpacks on their backs, helicopters on every roof in Superville, entire meals devoured in a single pill, and paper business suits selling for $1.98 in every corner supermarket.

And, look up in the sky. . . Is it a bird? . . . Is it a plane? . . . No, it's just Superman, another member of the growing crowd of obsoletes.

THE WELCOME WAGON NEWCOMERS CLUB is now in the midst of planning a dinner-dance to be held at Jackson Valley Country Club on Saturday, June 3rd. Invited to share the evening, which is to begin with a social mixer before dinner, are the members of another affiliate of the Welcome Wagon, the Fifth Wheel. Tickets are to go on sale at the meeting this Thursday of the Newcomers Club, according to general chairman of the affair, Mrs. H. A. Will. After that tickets may be obtained by members of the two clubs by calling Mrs. Richard Marchione at 723-7053, or Mrs. Michael Mead at 723-8079. The meeting this Thursday will be held as usual by Newcomers in Fellowship Hall of First Presbyterian Church at 7:45 p.m.

A NEW QUICK-COOKING OVEN was demonstrated at Beatty Junior High School on Thursday evening, when a representative of the Montague Company of Pittsburgh, used a gas convection oven in preparing dinner for the Warren County Cafeteria Employees and Administrators. The following was featured on the menu: Baked potatoes with sour cream, fried chicken, home-baked rolls, squash, and, raisin pie. With the one exception of squash (steamed) everything else was done in the new oven—the baking of the various foods, scheduled according to time required, was started at 5:15 p.m., and less than one and a half hours later, ALL one hundred persons present were being served. After the demonstration of fine cookery, a meeting was held and officers for the new term elected: President, Alvera Peterson; vice president, Iva Lloyd; secretary and treasurer, Louise Burford.

COURT WARREN NO. 834, C.D. OF A. members are to “dress-up” tomorrow night for the regular monthly meeting of the organization, in any outfit that can be dreamed up (the more off-beat, the better). Judges will award prizes. There will also be a talent show. On the more serious side, members are reminded that there will also be election of officers for 1967-1968. The meeting will take place as usual in the social hall at Holy Redeemer Church at 8 p.m.

MINIATURES: Tomorrow, May 3rd, South Street School will have its annual Ice Cream Social served inside the school. Tickets are 25 cents and include ice cream and cup cakes. Coffee will be free, but there will be an extra charge for pop. Serving from 4 to 8 p.m.

Saturday the Warren Council No. 563 United Commercial Travelers are meeting at 7:30 p.m. A film showing the seven cancer danger signals will be shown in the hospitality room of the Northwest Savings and Loan Building.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last summer our daughter started to smoke at age 16. I hated to see that lovely girl with a cigaret in her mouth and I told her so. She ignored my request that she stop. I decided to take away her allowance and I did. She later convinced me that she needed money for necessities, so I re-stored part of her allowance.

Finally I told her if she didn't stop smoking I would give her only one year of college. She continued to smoke. Last week I announced, “Either quit smoking or you will get NO college.” Yesterday I caught her smoking and now I must make good my threat.

The girl is bright and talented. I am working full time to send our older daughter to college and would have to continue to work to send this one. Their father never made enough money for extras.

I say if smoking is more important to this girl than college, I am a fool to work to put her through. What do you say? — HEARTSICK MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: In an attempt to win this battle you have gone out on a limb and sawed yourself off. Moreover, you have violated two cardinal rules for raising children: (1) Don't promise or threaten that which you don't mean to deliver, (2) Make sure the punishment fits the crime.

Unfortunately, your daughter is using cigarettes as an expression of rebellion — a symbol of her independence. But you won't solve that problem by denying her an education. Go to her and say: “I am opposed to your smoking because it is damaging to your health, it is a dirty habit and it is an expensive habit. I withdraw all threats, however, and I leave the decision up to you.”

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was amused by your reply to the modest woman who objected to saleswomen intruding when she was stripped down to the altogether trying on girdles and brassieres. You were right when you said it was awfully hard work for a saleswoman to stuff a 44 backside into a size 38 girdle.

My cross was bathing suits. No sylph myself, I was overly sympathetic to my heavier customers. But I was astonished at how unrealistic they were about their figures. Many women needed my help to get into those swim suits because they insisted on buying suits which were two sizes too small. I often wondered who stuffed them in after they left the store.

Why didn't you suggest the most obvious solution to the problem, Ann? If a customer told ME she didn't need help I did not try to help her, I merely wrote up the sale when she came out of the fitting room and handed me the garments. — NO BARGER INNER

DEAR NO BARGER: Some of us fail to see a solution because it is so obvious. Thank you for pointing out something which I should have seen myself.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CAN'T BELIEVE IT: Why are you surprised? It is no secret that many people live a lifetime together, and even raise families, but they never communicate in any meaningful sense. Their lives run parallel but never meet at a given point. This is the type of relationship you had with your husband.

125 Attend Homemakers Day

Fellowship Hall of First Presbyterian Church, Warren, was the recent setting for the county-wide gathering of members of the various Homemakers Groups sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Association. The general theme for the day-long affair was “Let's Look At Pennsylvania”.

Though some of the arts and crafts were of a more modern and personalized choice, most followed the theme as it related to particular sections of Pennsylvania. For instance: utilitarian art work was on view as representative of the Pennsylvania Dutch country heritage; and there were those who exhibited genuine Pennsylvania antiques.

Among the one hundred and twenty-five attending the exhibit and buffet luncheon were the following chairmen of homemakers groups: Harriet Whitton, Barnes; Evelyn Frazier, Chandelers Valley; Edna Atwood and Maddlyn Wester, Cherry Grove; Lenora Anderson, Clarendon; Thelma Curtis, Columbus; Catherine Haben, East Side; Pat Whitmore, Hemlock; Julia Papalia, Hill - Valley; Helen Kyler, Hooktown; Janet Firth, Lander; Betty Streich, North Warren; Evelyn Gustafson, and Gertrude Loomis, Pittsfield; Ann Curtin, Sheffield; Esther Tompkins, South-west-Grand Valley; Rosie Imhoff, Spring Creek; Ethel Huckabone, Starbrick; Ethel Urbaitis, Warren State Hospital; Evelyn Wilson, Swede Hollow; Margaret Alberth, Tidicutte; Beatrice Topper, Toppers; Gladys Si-mones, Warren Grange; Florence Spencer, Watson Grange; Camilla Thompson, and Martha Shattuck, What's Next; Marie Chinberg, Upper Conewango.

The program, besides exhibits, included a formal welcome by Vera Robertson of Spring Creek and Sharon Corey, assistant home economist; a song fest led by Nora Lydell of Warren and Betty Danielson of Pittsfield; a slide presentation by Norman Perschke, associate county agent, on the theme “Let's Look At Pennsylvania”; a talk by Sharon Corey on the home economics advisory committee, and another talk by Ann Blair of the Volunteers Office at Warren State Hospital on community service in Warren County.

Edna Stone of Hemlock told of the Lydia Tarrant-Extension Homemakers Scholarship Fund, toward which, the groups present donated $80.

The afternoon program, following the buffet luncheon at noon, was emceed by Emma Kafferlin of Spring Creek, and included another song fest and a demonstration by Mrs. George Gould of Corry on “Pottery Making In Northwest Pennsylvania”.

The executive committee for the event were Mrs. Gladys Gruber of Sugar Grove; Mrs. Marian Skinner of Lander, vice president; Mrs. Emma Kafferlin of Spring Creek; Mrs. Pauline Sarvis of Sugar Grove; Mrs. Edna Stone of Warren; Mrs. Ann Curtin of Barnes, president.

Those who serve on the official staff of Warren County Cooperative Extension service include Bernard Wingert, county agent; Norman Perschke, associate county agent; Sharon Corey, assistant home economist and Verna Jones, office secretary. Advisory committee members of the Extension groups include Mrs. Lenora Anderson of Clarendon, Mrs. Dorothy Ruhlman of Hooktown, Mrs. Thelma Curtis of Columbus, Mrs. Emma Kiernan of North Warren, secretary and treasurer; all serving for one year. Serving for two years are Mrs. Esther Tompkins of Grand Valley, Mrs. Catherine Stockhill of Starbrick, Mrs. Mabel Hutchings of Chandelers Valley; and, for three years, Mrs. Winifred Bugbee of Pittsfield, Mrs. Vera Robertson of Spring Creek, Mrs. Elizabeth McMillen of Swede Hollow.

LINDA ROSE HARLE

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Harle of Frewsburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda Rose, to LeRoy H. Porter, son of Mrs. Esther P. Porter of Russell, and the late Myles Porter.

Miss Harle is a 1966 graduate of Frewsburg Central School and her fiance, a 1961 graduate of Eisenhower High School. He is presently employed at Proto Tool.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Patty Shells

1 package frozen patty shells
1 pound fresh mushrooms
8 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
2 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
2 cups cooked ham, cut in julienne strips

Prepare patty shells according to package directions. Clean and slice mushrooms. In saucepan, saute mushrooms in 3 tablespoons butter until tender. Remove mushrooms from pan. Add remaining butter; blend in flour, salt, pepper and mustard. Gradually add milk and heat stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Reduce heat; add cheese and stir until melted. Add ham and mushrooms. Serve in warm patty shells.

Blue Stockings Entertained By Mrs. John Roop

Mrs. John Roop, assisted by Mrs. Minor Satterlund, entertained the Blue Stocking Group at her home in North Warren recently. Mrs. James Cousins conducted a short business meeting and Mrs. Donald McComas, chairman of the program committee, presented Mrs. Vance Weld, who gave a paper on the life and activities of Henry R. Rouse, one of Warren County's early, and best known, citizens.

Mr. Rouse was born in Westfield, N. Y., taught school in Tidoute and lived all his adult life in Enterprise. He came here as a far-sighted, energetic young man greatly interested in the production of oil. It was while he was working at one of his wells in Rouseville, that he was burned to death at the age of 38. A bachelor, he had no close relatives but his father. In the last few days of his suffering, he made his will which provided much for the poor. Of these bequests, perhaps the best known, in this area, is the Rouse Home at Youngsville.

The program chairman also showed an old Warren County Atlas with pictures of many old but still standing homes in Irvine, Youngsville, Sugar Grove, Sheffield, Russell and Warren.

Mrs. Donald McComas and Mrs. Arthur Lydell presided at the tea table from which refreshments were served. The next and final meeting for this season, will be a luncheon at Jackson Valley Country Club on Tuesday, May 9.

Grange Notes

Fourteen members, three guests and two juveniles were present at the recent meeting of Watson Grange. Applications for membership will be due by May 11.

Jean Yeager won first prize for a cotton dress which was modeled by her sister, Florence Spencer, for whom it was made. Gertrude Edmiston won a prize for a cotton dress she made for her daughter Linda, who also modeled it. McCalls Step by Step sewing books were presented through the courtesy of Levinson Brothers. Judges were Miss Janet Drake of Tidoute, home economics teacher; Mrs. Ellen McGraw of Levinsons dry goods department and Mrs. Sharon Corey, home economist with the Agricultural Extension.

Other highlights of the meeting included the decision to continue baked goods auctions. Mrs. Ruby Wilcox was the nut bread winner in the evening's auction. Mrs. Corey showed slides on nutritional values.

It was announced that square dances will be held every two weeks beginning, May 27. The next business meeting will be Thursday, May 11.

Chicken Soup Must Have Real Chicken

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's official and final now. Beginning Sept. 1 there must be real chicken meat in chicken soup.

Specifically, the Agriculture Department directed, all prepared chicken or turkey soups must contain at least two per cent poultry meat on a ready-to-serve basis.

Soups containing less than that quantity of meat may be labeled as “chicken flavored” or “turkey flavored.”

PENNSYLVANIA NURSE WEEK

“Whereas, the role of the nurse is vital in our public and personal health picture; and whereas, the need for expert and dedicated nurses grows each day, demanding a constant expansion of the ranks of this profession; and whereas, it is fitting that we pay tribute to the work and skill of the nurses of Pennsylvania and the Nation; and whereas, the Pennsylvania Legislature has, by Senate Concurrent Resolution adopted November 21, 1955, set aside the week including May 12th as Pennsylvania Nurse Week; now, therefore, I Raymond P. Shafer, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby proclaim the week of May 7-13, 1967, as Pennsylvania Nurse Week in Pennsylvania.” So reads the proclamation signed by Raymond P. Shafer, Governor of Pennsylvania.

Youth Rally In Jamestown This Friday And Saturday

Friday and Saturday of this week, May 5 and 6, there will be held at the First Methodist Church, Lakeview and Buffalo streets, Jamestown, N.Y., a Youth Rally. A team comprised of the Rev. Frank Reynolds and a group of four, and members from the Rev. Dave Wilkerson's Teen-Challenge of New York City, will be the featured guests.

They will present testimonies and will show a film “Teen Revolt”. Also on the program will be local youths who will present testimonies and bring special music.

Both services will begin at 7:30 p.m. Also on Saturday afternoon, May 6, another film “Devil's Pit” will be shown. A question and answer period will follow. This program begins at 2:30 p.m. and is especially designed for adults.

There will be singing by a youth choir led by Michael Blakeney, 18, and at the organ will be Brian Bogey. The public is welcome.

Hints From Heloise

Rice 'N Chicken

Dear Folks:
When fixing instant rice to go with a boiled chicken . . . instead of using water, try using some of that chicken broth!

It is the bestest . . .
Another method of cooking instant rice is to sprinkle either celery salt, celery seed, onion salt or garlic powder into it.

Man, does that change the taste of plain old rice.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Many eyeglass cases are very beautiful and an extra one comes in very handy.

Put your nail file, clippers, small embroidery scissors, a few bobby pins, a threaded needle, etc., in one of these cases.

Close it and you will have a lovely utility case to carry in your handbag.

E. I.

DEAR HELOISE:

On a rainy day or when your child is sick and unable to play outside give him paper, pencil, crayons and an assortment of cookie cutters. He can draw around the cookie cutters, add faces or color the pictures using his own imagination.

There isn't much mess and he is kept busy, but still.

Mother

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

If you use a soup spoon instead of a serving spoon in your bowls at dinner time, you will be surprised how many less calories you get upon your plate!

Almost everybody dips so many spoonfuls of something when serving themselves.

The weight loss is more than you will ever realize . . .

Doctor

Dear Doctor:

I never realized how much more gravy (and I am laughing) that a serving spoon held than the soup spoon did.

I tried this three nights in a row on my family and they didn't even notice the difference.

I think you are the greatest.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I love flowered or striped bed linens, and up until now I had never thought to buy TWO matching bottom contour sheets since they usually wear out first.

Now when the matching bottom contour sheet wears out, I buy plain white ones and am still able to continue using my fancy top sheets and pillow cases.

Mrs. Albert Smith

The point is to buy two bottom contours to match each top sheet. She's right too. The top sheets outlast the bottom ones.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Everyone likes to save 5 to 10 minutes working time when they can.

I did it by putting a cardboard divider in my clothes hamper, putting the white things on one side and the colored ones on the other.

When it's time to wash, the clothes are already sorted for me.

Mrs. G. Schift

DEAR HELOISE:

I have just taken up embroidery and this is the way I keep my thread:

I wrap the embroidery thread around empty plastic prescription bottles.

On the inside of the bottles, I put the labels that tell the color and number.

Also, the loose ends of the thread fit under the snap-on lid and don't get lost or tangled.

This way I keep everything neat and easy to find.

Gail

DEAR HELOISE:

Did you ever try mixing a slice of bread soaked in milk in bulk pork sausage?

It makes the nicest patties and oh, such tender ones.

JOSEPH PACE

Joseph Pace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pace of 4 Clover street, North Warren, was recently chosen "Mr. Wonderful" of Delta Nu Omega sorority at Rochester Business Institute. He was chosen on the basis of popularity and service. Pace is also pledge master of Sigma Delta Epsilon fraternity and chairman of Spring Week at R.B.I.

The College of Wooster has named the following area students to the high Dean's List for grades sustained during the past semester: Carla Livezey, senior, with an average between 3.5 and 4.0 daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Livezey of Route 3, Sugar Grove. Jon P. Marti, with an average between 3.0 and 3.5, has been named to the regular Dean's List. A senior, also, Mr. Marti is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Marti of 330 Park street.

Barbara Ruth Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Baker Jr. of 205 Dartmouth street, Warren, has been named to the Dean's List at Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston, Massachusetts. A freshman, Miss Baker is majoring in Chemistry and plans to enter the medical profession upon completion of school.

David Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Moore of Russell, has also been named to the Dean's List at Eastern Nazarene College in Wollaston, Massachusetts. A student who makes the Dean's List must make a B-plus average in all subjects with no grade lower than a B.

A senior, Mr. Moore is majoring in Music Education and plans to enter the teaching profession upon graduation in June.

Miss Smith, who will graduate from the Joliet Township high school this spring, was awarded full tuition for one year on the basis of her competition against eighteen other outstanding high school seniors from throughout the country. The scholarship is renewable if Miss Smith maintains the standards established by the scholarship committee of the college.

Miss Smith was chosen for competition on the basis of her high school record, her scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test and her contribution to school and community affairs.

St. Michael Catholic Church (Byzantine Rite) of Sheffield, will celebrate the Holy Day of Obligation, the Feast of the Ascension of Our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, on Thursday of this week. The choral Divine Liturgy will be sung at 9 a.m., and the Spoken Liturgy in English will be celebrated at 7 p.m.

This feast is of great antiquity. St. Augustine (354-430) attests that it is of apostolic origin. An ancient tradition relates that Christ's ascension took place on the Mount of Olives. It commemorates the glorious ascension of Jesus in the presence of His apostles and disciples forty days after His resurrection; thus the event is commemorated on the fortieth day after Easter.

Holy Communion will be taken to shut-in parishioners after the morning Choral Divine Liturgy this Friday. First Friday devotions will be sung at 7 p.m.

The Holy Name Society will hold a meeting this Saturday after confessions at 8 p.m.

Epistlers for the 8 a.m. Spoken Liturgy on Sundays in May are Peter Bleech, Steven Haden, J. Ronald Bross and John Odonish Jr.

Next Sunday marks the observance of the Nicene Holy Fathers, reminding us of the first universal Council assembled at Nicea in 325. The Council was convened by the first Christian Emperor, Constantine the Great with the sanction of Pope Sylvester I. 318 Bishops, mostly Eastern, under the presidency of Hosius and two Roman priests, legates of the Holy See, took part in the council.

Robert Donaldson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Donaldson of 819 Pleasant drive, has been elected president of the Junior Class at Findlay College, Findlay, Ohio, where he is a Political Science major.

Miss Sheila Flannery, a frequent visitor in Warren, at the Donaldson residence, is a candidate for May Queen at the same school.

Judy Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Smith of 3803 Marylou avenue, Leland Hills, Illinois, and granddaughter of Mrs. Sarah Smith of Clarendon, and Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Dodge of Trumans, is one of two award winners of the Outstanding Freshman Award competition at North Central College at Naperville, Illinois, for the 1967-68 school year.

Miss Smith, who will graduate from the Joliet Township high school this spring, was awarded full tuition for one year on the basis of her competition against eighteen other outstanding high school seniors from throughout the country. The scholarship is renewable if Miss Smith maintains the standards established by the scholarship committee of the college.

Miss Smith was chosen for competition on the basis of her high school record, her scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test and her contribution to school and community affairs.

St. Michael's Church Notes

The Council condemned the heresy of Arius, a priest from Alexandria. Arius denied that Christ was really truly God. The Council proclaimed that Jesus is true God, consubstantial with the Father. It defined the true Catholic teaching in a formula which later was expanded into the "Nicene Creed." The day on which Easter should be celebrated was also determined. The most prominent Fathers of the Eastern Church are: Saints Irenaeus, Athanasius, Cyril of Alexandria, Basil the Great, Gregory the Theologian, John Chrysostom and Ephrem.

Mother M. Aquiline, Order of St. Basil the Great, died at the Basilian Sisters' Motherhouse in Philadelphia, April 22. Since her solemn Religious profession in 1925 in the Philadelphia Cathedral and until her death, she was active in the teaching assignments of her Order. She had taught in parochial elementary schools opened in 1925 in Philadelphia. She joined the Basilian Sisters in 1911. + Solemn ground-breaking for the construction of St. Stephen B. C. Church in Amherst (Buffalo), N.Y., took place on Sunday, April 16. The combination church-hall structure is slated for completion this August.

Opening lead: Deuce of ♠.
 North and South reached the only contract that has a chance as the cards lay—four hearts. With the even distribution of the adverse trumps, the heart game appears, in fact, to be unbeatable.

East and West collaborated with a veritable masterpiece of defensive maneuvering to achieve a stunning upset on the deal.

West opened the deuce of spades, North played the eight and East won the trick with the jack. The latter continued to cash his high spades until declarer ruffed the third round with the ten of hearts.

South led the king of clubs and West, after a prolonged deliberation, ducked the trick! Declarer continued with the queen of clubs and when West again refused to cover, a diamond was discarded from dummy.

The jack of clubs was put thru next, and this time East was in position to win the trick by ruffing with the deuce of hearts. He now proceeded to apply the finishing touch to his partner's diabolical campaign by leading a fourth round of spades. The ruff and discard presented to the declarer, proved to be in the nature of a lethal gift.

In order to protect his own trump holding, South discarded a club and won the trick with North's five of hearts. Declarer led a trump to his jack in order to finally ruff out West's ace of clubs with dummy's king of trumps. North had nothing but diamonds left, therefore, in order to return to his hand, South was obliged to ruff a diamond. This left him with only one heart—the ace, while West retained two trumps—one of which took the setting trick.

Observe that, if West covers the king of clubs early in the play, there is no way to prevent declarer from winning the rest of the tricks, for the club suit becomes established as soon as the ace is dislodged.

West's boldly conceived duck in clubs was not sufficient in itself, however. It was also essential for East to lead the fourth round of spades after he ruffs the jack of clubs. By forcing out one of dummy's small trumps before the club suit became established, East punctured South's vital line of communications with the North hand—and there was no way declarer could recover.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.
FOR TUESDAY, MAY 2, 1967
ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Under day's favorable influences, you should find new ambition and incentive, seek new ways to improve. Experimentation and new projects, well-managed, can advance.
TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—You, too, have fine aspects, but there may be some interference with plans here. Stand straight, head up! But don't jump the gun. Desired results will be gained mainly through hard work, done consistently.
GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—No outstandingly impressive opportunities indicated, yet there are hidden gems of value available which you may overlook if you are too hasty, too anxious, or if you skim the surface without looking beneath.
CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Lunar influences should inspire top-flight efforts. Especially favored: Educational programs, dealing with animals, military affairs, engineering, medicine and health programs.
LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Planetary aspects now favor personal relationships. This is a perfect period in which to cement old friendships, share pleasures with loved ones and encourage new acquaintances.
VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Mercury's position suggests the revival of old projects if still feasible and the launching of new ones that could better your course and outlook. Choose wisely, noting all potentials.
LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—While some influences are good, you are nevertheless cautioned against misinterpreting, over-stressing and getting ahead of yourself in certain areas. Emphasize the Libran's common sense.
SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Avoid a tendency to overdo things now. However, Mars promises advancement if you are resourceful and accurate. Exercise all faculties.
SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Tune up and tone up. Business, financial, and professional matters highly favored. You could make some unusual strides with your talents and verve.
CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Day should be generally good but, without personal initiative, you will fall behind. Nothing will be handed to you on the proverbial silver platter.
AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—There is a tendency to vacillate now. Avoid it. If you seem bogged down in efforts, take time to reorganize. New methods can help.
PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Some good news or friendly cooperation should aid you in perfecting long-range plans. Study new trends, developments.
YOU BORN TODAY: You have definite likes and dislikes and are adamant about them. Don't be too obstinate or your really good ideas will be lost on others. You are loving, a fine family provider, powerful in defending both people and principles; sympathetic to the underprivileged, a champion of freedom and man's dignity. You could be a top-ranking diplomat or other type of statesman. You should like theatricals, travel, the arts. Birthdate of Bing Crosby, singer.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

POTENTIAL SUICIDES
 Despair and helplessness lead to most suicides. Diagnosing desperation is difficult because many people are clever in hiding their troubles. They bear immense inner burdens without complaining. According to Dr. Leston L. Havens of Boston, their "... independence, the brave front arise from fear and pride; the person is trapped inside his cheerful, courageous mask, behind which accumulate unspoken convictions of not being understood or the burdens appreciated."
 In many instances the potential suicide offers clues that must not be taken lightly. Families should be on the alert when feelings of depression are insurmountable to the individual. Other danger signals include feelings of guilt and self-depreciation, fear of losing control, and insomnia, especially when accompanied by anxiety and dread.
 Never disregard suicidal thoughts or a preoccupation with wanting to die. Anyone with these manifestations should see the family physician or psychiatrist. Unfortunately, many of those contemplating self-destruction put on such a good act, they are not recognized in time.
 Dr. Havens, writing in the New England Journal of Medicine, presents a systematized approach to detecting elusive suicidal risks. Tracking them down takes real detective work, tact, and a thorough knowledge of their emotional makeup. Much can be learned by listening more and talking less.
 The psychiatrist must observe their speech, expression, movement, dress, and all the outer signs. Anything that does not fit or that fits too well is suspect. Such people are typical examples of "smiling on the outside while crying on the inside."
 Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.
TOMORROW: Prolonging Death.

UGLY SCAR
 D. S. writes: After an operation on my arm for removal of a cyst, I developed a keloid. Can it be eliminated?
REPLY
 Yes. Although there is no guarantee that it will not recur after the second operation. During the last few years encouraging reports have appeared on the use of cortisone-like products in the prevention of keloid formation. These solutions are injected into the scar or administered orally. Treatments with solid carbon dioxide and X-ray also have been effective. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on keloids.

READ ON, MACDUFF
 K. J. writes: Because I have occasional headaches, my brother claims they are caused by poor digestion brought on by my habit of reading while eating. I disagree. Will you please settle this controversy?
REPLY
 Your brother is wrong on two counts: Reading does not cause indigestion, and indigestion does not cause headache. On the other hand, reading may cause headache.
TODAY'S HEALTH HINT — Encourage the child to think.

FILM 'FIRST'

A film "first" in Paramount Pictures' feature-length Technicolor motion picture "Bolshoi Ballet 67" is the intensely dramatic, fantasy laden "Paganini," performed only briefly on stage in this country, but more fully performed in the film. Yaroslav Sekh recreates his portrait of the great and tortured violinist, and Ekaterina Maximova interprets the role of his romantic inspiration. Opening Wednesday at the Library Theater.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of W. H. Haight who passed away 1 year ago this second day of May.

Surrounded by our friends, we're lonesome,
In the midst of friends, we're blue;
A smile on our faces, still a heartache,
Aching and longing for you.
Some may say you're forgotten and the wound is nearly healed,
But little do they know the pain that lies in our hearts concealed.

Loved and sadly missed by

Ludlow Area News of Interest

By HILDUR WENSTRAN

Mrs. L. Bernal Connelly, chairman of McKean County Cancer Society had selected as workers to solicit funds for the drive last week, the following: Mrs. Carlton Olson, Mrs. Ward Anderson, Mrs. John Kulka, Mrs. George Zeeder, Mrs. Tony Raymond, Mrs. Charles Ficus, Mrs. William Ralston, Mrs. Harry Carl, Mrs. Kermit Johnson, Mrs. George Depto, Mrs. Doris Cartwright, Mrs. Donald Thornton, and the Misses Joyce Wallin, Gladys Morrell, Catherine Juban, Virginia Turay and Norma Bergquist. The Hamilton Township PTA meeting was held at the Ludlow School Tuesday evening at 7:30 with the president, Mrs. William Campbell presiding. The newly elected officers were installed by the president: Mrs. Millie Anderson, president; Mrs. Wilda Cochran, 1st vice president; Mrs. Phyllis Davidson, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Marge Walters, secretary and Mrs. Ann Lindquist as treasurer. The program was given by Mrs. Clifford Bollinger who showed and narrated a film on Camp Cornplanter, and which was discussed for a picnic but no date set as yet. Track meet will be held at Kane High School on Memorial Day. Mrs. Wilda McCleary introduced the new janitor, George Gidos, who will replace Adolph Johnson who has resigned due to ill health. Refreshments were served by the Kindergarten mothers.

A former Ludlow boy, Officer Donald C. Beckwith, and son of Mr. and Mrs. William Beckwith has been promoted to the rank of Sergeant First Class at the US Army Garrison, Indiantown Gap. A member of the active Army for over 18 years, he with his family have resided at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation for the past three years. His wife is the former Mary Slater of Sheffield.

While away on their vacation recently, Mr. and Mrs. William Beckwith became great-grandparents to a son born to Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Swanson of Warren on April 15. The little lad weighed 5 lbs. and was named John Michael. Mr. Swanson is employed as a Lab Technician at the United Refinery in Warren.

Mr. C. H. Gardner and Mrs. E. F. Huber were in Erie on Tuesday. Mr. Gardner attended a Mission Board meeting as a representative of St. John's Episcopal Church in Kane.

Mrs. Anna Bergquist and Miss Norma Bergquist are spending the weekend in Fairport, N. Y. with Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Bergquist.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beckwith left Sunday morning for a few days' visit with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. P. Makowski at Leeburg, Pa. Last weekend they visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Anderson in Jamestown, N. Y. Mr. Anderson is a patient at the Jamestown General Hospital.

Friday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peterson of Jamestown, N. Y. visited at the home of Mrs. Hildur Wenstran.

Those attending the County Council meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary at Sugar Grove Saturday afternoon were: Mrs. Agnes Ross, Mrs. Anna Fetzek, Mrs. Agnes Forsgren, Mrs. Dora Christenson and Mrs. Nina Peterson. The meeting was held in the Presbyterian Church and dinner was served in the Legion Hall.

Mrs. Doris Cartwright and children, Peggy, Nancy and Raymond, left Friday morning for Columbus, Ohio, where they visited her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Poole. They returned home Sunday.

The Pricilla Unit of Moriah Church met Wednesday afternoon in the church parlors with Miss Tillie Olson as leader of the Bible Study. The lesson was the 23rd Psalm and all 12 present took part. After the lesson a lunch was served; it was a most interesting meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Anderson and sons David and Danny of Johnstown, Pa. were guests at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Axel K. Anderson last Sunday. A birthday dinner was served in honor of Clarence, who celebrated his 44th birthday.

Mrs. Anna Fetzek was dismissed from Kane Community Hospital Saturday. Her daughter, Mrs. William (Mary) Ter, Mrs. William (Mary) Thompson of Bedford, Pa., who had been with her mother for a week, returned home Wednesday.

Mrs. Marie Swanson of Meadville was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Evert Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Clark Walters of Youngsville and Mr. Robert Platt of Erie, visited during the week at the home of Mrs. Merle Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gregg had as their guests on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clark and

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Benn from Clarion.

Mr. and Mrs. Evert Youngberg of Jamestown, N. Y. visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Nelson Sunday afternoon.

Food Prices Decline Slightly

NEW YORK (AP)—The Johnson administration, accused by farmers of fostering a cheap food policy, took steps last week to ease unrest in the farm belt. At the same time it held out some reassurances to food shoppers.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman raised the price paid dairymen for milk about one-half cent a quart. He said it would eliminate seasonal fluctuations and give farmers more stable prices.

"There is nothing I can see to justify any increase cost to the consumer," Freeman said.

The Labor Department reported food prices last month declined slightly, but less than usual in March.

It added that wholesale prices had declined further than prices consumers pay in food stores. Beef prices are down with steaks and roasts featured on specials across the country.

Butter prices dropped 2 cents a pound last week. This still is 2 cents higher than a year ago.

The season's first watermelons and strawberries are reaching the markets.

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Here is a pleasant way to overcome loose plate discomfort. FASTEREETH, an improved powder, sprinkled on upper and lower plates, holds them firmly so they feel more comfortable. No gumming, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline. Doesn't sour. Checks "plate odor breath." Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get FASTEREETH at all drug counters.
